

CEL ANSWERS

INDEX

The index entries are referenced to the section numbers of the publication.

Absenteeism and lateness See Terminations, reasons for dismissal

Accommodation See Human rights

Bona fide occupational requirements (BFOR) See Human rights, job applicants

Breach of trust See Terminations, reason for dismissal

Conflict of interest

- board of directors obligated to act in good faith and in best interests of company, 1.8
- director able to accept paid position with company if acting in good faith, 1.8
- whether termination of employee for personal benefit of director, 1.8
- wrongful dismissal action if employee terminated without cause and on advice of board, 1.8
- disclosure of any interest in transaction before board, 1.8
- shareholders having statutory remedy of rescission where oppressive conduct, 1.8
- manager having romantic relationship with employee of supplier, 1.8, 4.4.2
- conflict of interest arising where relationship impairing ability to discharge duties, 1.8
- clear and proper grounds required, 1.8
- duty of fidelity requiring employee to avoid conflict involving personal interests, 1.8
- duty to disclose actual or potential conflict, 1.8
- situation discussed with manager to identify concerns and emphasize obligations, 1.8
- workplace romances creating difficult challenges, 1.8

Constructive dismissal See also Terminations

- examples of constructive dismissal, 1.11
- key elements of constructive dismissal, 1.11
- unilateral change to fundamental term of employment relationship, 1.11

INDEX

- reasonable notice of change minimizing employer's exposure, 1.11
- amount of notice being same as required in event of termination, 1.11
- employer able to impose change once notice period passed, 1.11

Discipline

- breach of employment policies, 8.3.9
- electronic media, 8.3.9
- demotion, 8.1
- grounds for discipline, 8.3
- absenteeism during holiday season, 8.3.1
- employees' obligation to maintain regular attendance, 8.3.1
- breach of trust: reading employee's e-mails and use as proof of insubordination, 8.3.2
- caution in intercepting workplace e-mail communications, 8.3.2
- Criminal Code making it illegal to intercept private communications, 8.3.2
- failure to report misconduct, 8.3.8
- four-step approach to assess whether monitoring of e-mails was reasonable, 8.3.2
- "insubordination" requiring flouting or challenging of employer's authority, 8.3.2
- Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA), 8.3.2
- reasonable expectation of privacy respecting workplace computer use, 8.3.2
- workplace policies, 8.3.2
- policy explicitly communicating that e-mails not subject to privacy, 8.3.2
- risk that interception of e-mails violating employee's privacy where no policy, 8.3.2
- investigation of employee misconduct, 8.4
- bad faith, 8.4
- contractual obligations, company policies and procedures, 8.4
- damages due to flawed investigations, 8.4
- higher standard of care for serious offences, 8.4
- impartiality, 8.4
- minimum standard of fairness, 8.4
- legal offence committed at work, 8.3.5
- dismissal warranted if investigation conducted as to occurrence of facts underlying charge, 8.3.5
- employer having independent ability to consider evidence and its own reasons, 8.3.5

INDEX

- employer having lesser standard of proof than required for criminal conviction, 8.3.5
- termination not depending on completion of criminal proceedings, 8.3.5
- criminal charges dismissed for reasons unrelated to existence of misconduct, 8.3.5
- poor performance, 8.3.4
- refusal of worker's request for transfer where worker being poor performer, 8.3.4
- employer not having obligation to grant transfer unless past practice or employer statement, 8.3.4
- employer ought to ensure that no statements made to employee, 8.3.4
- safety, 8.3.3
- careless mistakes potentially threatening safety of co-workers, 8.3.3
- Criminal Code introducing "corporate killing" law, 8.3.3
- legal duty to ensure that work performed safely, 8.3.3
- violation of duty resulting in offence of criminal negligence, 8.3.3
- single act of carelessness required to be gross negligence to justify just cause, 8.3.3
- single careless act not normally constituting just cause for dismissal, 8.3.3
- discipline process for health and safety infractions, 8.3.3
- removing separate process, 8.3.3
- harassment victim and disciplined employee working in same department, 8.3.3
- accommodating victim to allow her to work in safe environment, 8.3.3
- constructive dismissal where continued employment intolerable, 8.3.3
- employer's duty to protect employee from volatile and intimidating co-worker, 8.3.3
- employer's duty to provide safe place of employment, 8.3.3
- failure to provide suitable environment being constructive dismissal, 8.3.3
- victim uncomfortable working with disciplined employee, 8.3.3
- medical documentation as proof of illness or accident where high absenteeism, 8.3.3
- employer's discretion to require more satisfactory documentation, 8.3.3
- further documentation where medical note(s) suspect, 8.3.3
- progressive discipline, 8.2
- different poor conduct than prior warning, 8.2
- drunkenness at worksite, 8.2
- common law or collective agreement applying, 8.2
- human rights issue if intoxication due to addiction, 8.2

INDEX

- intoxication at work being serious offence and breach of obligations, 8.2
- termination for cause based on contextual approach, 8.2
 - factors in determining degree of discipline, 8.2
- unpaid suspension if allowed in employment agreement, 8.2
- warning to be given if termination not justified, 8.2
- new policy of removing clients from territory where files not updated, 8.2
- unilateral fundamental change without reasonable notice constituting dismissal, 8.2
 - constructive dismissal cases determined on facts of employment relationship, 8.2
 - where suspension and demotion for poor performance contrary to company policy, 8.2
 - constructive discipline as contract not allowing employer to suspend employee, 8.2
 - employment contract not providing for this type of discipline, 8.2
 - policy laying out investigation and multi-stepped progressive discipline, 8.2
- suspensions, 8.1
- constructive dismissal and paid or unpaid suspension, 8.1
- common-law contract principles not recognizing right to impose unpaid suspensions, 8.1
 - “corrective discipline” model recognizing less serious sanctions, 8.1
 - protection from claims of constructive dismissal, 8.1
 - reasonable suspension clauses seen as implied standard term in contracts, 8.1
- docking pay and unpaid suspensions, 8.1
- B.C. Act prohibiting employer from requiring payment for business costs, 8.1
- ESA prohibiting unauthorized deductions, 8.1
- Ontario Act prohibiting wage deductions for faulty work or loss of property, 8.1
- “self help remedy” not available of withholding pay or making payroll deductions, 8.1
- suspension of non-union employee without pay, 8.1
 - contextual approach and principle of proportionality, 8.1
 - short suspension with pay not constituting constructive dismissal, 8.1
 - unpaid suspension normally constituting constructive dismissal, 8.1
 - unpaid suspension where just cause for dismissal, 8.1
 - whether employment contract contemplating unpaid suspensions, 8.1
- unpaid “reflection” leave, employer’s right to impose, 8.1
 - policy established with respect to imposing suspensions on employees, 8.1
 - implementing new policy by advising employees of change in advance, 8.1

INDEX

- • unpaid suspensions, 8.1
- • • considerations before suspending employee without pay, 8.1
- • • unpaid suspensions viewed as constructive dismissal in non-union setting, 8.1
- • • use of suspensions where authorized in employment contract expressly or implicitly, 8.1
- • • whether progressive discipline model implied or spelled out in contracts, 8.1

Employment contracts See also Non-competition/non-solicitation agreements

- benefits, 1.6
- • Employment standard obligations and minimums, 1.6
- • mandatory benefit plan participation clause, 1.6
 - • • employee having choice of accepting or rejecting contract, 1.6
 - • • reasonable notice of change when introducing new requirement, 1.6
 - • • unilateral changes after contract formed regarded as constructive dismissal, 1.6
 - • • unilateral changes in salary usually constituting constructive dismissal, 1.6
 - • • where mandatory participation imposed on existing employees, 1.6
 - • • • whether net loss in remuneration considered repudiation of contract, 1.6
- • non-employed spouse's coverage under benefit plan where separation or divorce, 1.6
 - • • contract between employee and spouse not binding when inconsistent with policy, 1.6
 - • • coverage continuing so long as available under applicable plans, 1.6
 - • • definition of "spouse" resulting in termination of coverage where parties divorcing, 1.6
 - • • spousal maintenance claim, 1.6
 - • • payment of employer contributions for insured benefits where employee on LTD, 1.6
 - • • • entitlement to coverage depending upon being "actively employed", 1.6
 - • • • entitlement to coverage for all "employees", 1.6
 - • • • LTD benefits continuing only if individual unable to perform any occupation, 1.6
 - • • • payment of contributions for period of time, 1.6
 - • • recipient of LTD benefits incarcerated, 1.6
 - • • • each LTD plan having specific requirements or criteria, 1.6
 - • • • most LTD plans providing for disenfranchisement if incarceration, 1.6
 - • • • typical obligation being continued treatment for particular condition, 1.6
 - • • • whether incarceration attributable to disability in question, 1.6
 - • • reduction in benefits, 1.6
 - • • • additional consideration, 1.6
 - • • • creation of a new contract, 1.6

INDEX

- fundamental change to existing contract, 1.6
- reasonable and proper notice, 1.6
- unionized workplace, employer required to negotiate change to benefits, 1.6
- short-term disability, 1.6
- employer not required to pay employee where hired on basis of actual performance, 1.6
- hourly-wage or piece-work indicative of hiring based on actual performance, 1.6
- employer required to pay employee where hired on basis of promised performance, 1.6
- salaried employees, 1.6
- breach of contract, 1.11
- constructive dismissal, 1.11
- examples of constructive dismissal, 1.11
- key elements of constructive dismissal, 1.11
- unilateral change to fundamental term of employment relationship, 1.11
- reasonable notice of change minimizing employer's exposure, 1.11
- amount of notice being same as required in event of termination, 1.11
- employer able to impose change once notice period passed, 1.11
- elimination of stock options raising morale issues and issue of constructive dismissal, 1.11
- offering employees something in exchange for elimination of stock options, 1.11
- converting unilateral change into mutual agreement, 1.11
- significant changes to signed offer of employment, 1.11
- confidentiality, 1.7
- "confidential Information", narrow definition of, 1.7
- skill and knowledge committed to memory not within definition, 1.7
- where not dependent on documentation, 1.7
- solicitation of customers whose contact information learned during service, 1.7
- confidential information, use of, 1.7
- confidentiality clause and privileged information, 1.7
- duty not to disclose trade secrets and confidential information, 1.7
- factors affecting use of information, 1.7
- non-fiduciary employee able to use information, 1.7
- investment advisors able to prepare list of clients and contact information, 1.7
- contractor vs. employee, 1.9
- degree of control being key distinguishing factor, 1.9
- control of employment relationship manifesting in subordination of employee, 1.9

INDEX

- five factors in determining if person employee or independent contractor, 1.9
- protective employment statutes applying to contracts of employment, 1.9
- fixed-term contracts, 1.4 see also indefinite-term contracts
- changing the term for the new contract, 1.4
- employee working beyond expiry of fixed term, 1.4
 - employment standards legislation, 1.4
 - applicability of legislation varying, 1.4
 - Ontario Act exempting contracts of 12 months or less, 1.4
 - British Columbia Act, creation of indefinite term after three month extension, 1.4
 - no additional notice of termination to employee required, 1.4
 - reasonable notice of termination where employee continuing to work, 1.4
 - fixed term of less than one year, 1.4
 - no obligations under common law or Employment Standards Act, 1.4
 - series of fixed-term contracts, 1.4
 - administrative director with non-profit association, 1.4
 - employer not able to veil ongoing employment relationship, 1.4
 - employment of continuous duration, 1.4
 - fifteen years of service, 1.4
 - renewal provisions reasonably considered automatic, 1.4
 - sustained and long-term employment, court finding, 1.4
 - ongoing relationship with limited economic responsibility, 1.4
- steps recommended for employers, 1.4
- termination clauses, 1.4
- fundamental changes, 1.7
- change in shift schedule, 1.7
 - fixed hours changed, 1.7
 - fixed shift changed to rotational shift work, 1.7
 - constructive dismissal when hours unilaterally and substantially changed, risk of, 1.7
- reasonable and proper notice, 1.7
- termination provision in contract limiting notice to entitlement under legislation, 1.10
- reduction in sick day entitlement, 1.10
- reduction in vacation day entitlement, 1.10
 - fundamental changes to employee's duties since employment contract signed, 1.10
 - protection of employer by specifying that terms continuing despite changes, 1.10

INDEX

- employee acknowledging that agreement continuing to apply, 1.10
- termination clauses challenged as outdated and obsolete, 1.10
- where employee advancing in both position and responsibility, 1.10
- generally, 1.13
- dismissal of apprentice, 1.13
- employment contract, binding, 1.13
- contract codifying essential terms and conditions of relationship, 1.13
- points to consider in preparing written contract, 1.13
- gambling policy and office lottery pool or office sport pools, 1.13
- enforceability of gambling policy, 1.13
- whether concern over use of company time for personal activities, 1.13
- whether policy consistently enforced in past, 1.13
- whether policy forming part of employment contract, 1.13
- “gambling” defined, 1.13
- office pools constituting gambling, 1.13
- headphones, wearing of, 1.13
- basic rules restricting usage, 1.13
- safety implications and security threat, 1.13
- study showing advantages of listening to music of own choice, 1.13
- widespread use of personal music devices, 1.13
- workplace implications for headphone wearing, 1.13
- invention by employee, ownership of, 1.13
- common-law presumption that employee owning invention, 1.13
- exception: employee hired for purpose of inventing, 1.13
- exception: express contract to contrary, 1.13
- nature and context of employer-employee relationship to be considered, 1.13
- senior employee not disqualified from claiming ownership rights, 1.13
- probation periods between permanent and contract employees, 1.13
- different standard for, 1.13
- indefinite-term contracts, 1.5
- fixed-term contract vs. indefinite-term contract, 1.5
- fixed-term contract terminating after expiry of fixed-term, 1.5
- employee entitled to damages if contract terminated before expiry, 1.5
- wages and benefits for balance of term subject to mitigation, 1.5
- employee not entitled to reasonable notice of termination, 1.5
- fixed-term able to be for life of employee if agreement clear, 1.5
- indefinite-term contract terminated by providing reasonable notice, 1.5
- employee entitled to damages for period of reasonable notice, 1.5

INDEX

- Ontario Employers and Employees Act limiting term of contract to nine years, 1.5
 - limitation waived in case of manager, officer or superintendent, 1.5
 - where contract stipulating that employee could not be dismissed, 1.5
 - fixed-term contract for life requiring clear and unequivocal language, 1.5
 - sale of business, 1.12
 - impact of B.C.'s Employment Standards Act, 1.12
 - validity of contract if change in company ownership, 1.12
 - principles when employees hired back, 1.12
 - sale of assets terminates employment contract, 1.12
 - signing of contracts, 1.1
 - enforceability of agreement involving resignation or termination, 1.1
 - duress, oppressive or vague, 1.1
 - intellectual disability, issue of, 1.1
 - “meeting of the minds”, whether, 1.1
 - settlement agreement, 1.1
 - opportunity to consult lawyer, 1.1
 - provisions confirming that read and understood, 1.1
 - verbal agreement and subsequent written agreement, 1.1
 - lack of consideration, 1.1
 - formal contract, 1.1
 - absence of written contract requiring courts to imply certain terms, 1.1
 - reasonable notice period, implying, 1.1
 - whether three weeks’ vacation requiring 12 months of service, 1.1
 - employment relationship being contract, 1.1
 - letter as offer of employment, 1.1
 - discussions during interview constituting oral portion, 1.1
 - oral contracts ought to be put in writing, 1.1
 - contract executed after commencement of employment, 1.1
 - issue of sufficient consideration in form of forbearance, 1.1
 - prior to start of employment relationship, 1.1
 - verbal or written contract equally binding and enforceable, 1.1
 - unsigned contracts, 1.3
 - written contracts for existing employees, 1.1
 - consideration for alteration of existing rights, 1.1
 - constructive dismissal, risk of, 1.1
 - when employee offered raise or promotion, 1.1
 - termination clauses, 1.14
 - reasonable period of notice for employee, 1.14

INDEX

- statutory minimums, 1.14
- blanket termination clauses being ambiguous and unenforceable, risk of, 1.14
- express agreement of employee required, 1.14
- presumption of reasonable notice must be rebutted expressly or by implication, 1.14
- reasonable period of notice for employer, 1.14
- reasonable period of notice for employers under the common law, 1.14
- employer's right to notice vs employee's right to notice, 1.14
- unconscionable termination clauses, 1.14
- verbal contracts, 1.3
- obligations of parties, 1.3
- mutual agreement to vary terms of fixed-term contract, 1.3
- validity of changes by parties, 1.3
- oral terms to be converted into writing prior to commencement of work, 1.3
- oral terms converted to writing after commencement of work, 1.3
- additional consideration offered upon reduction to writing, 1.3
- parties agreeing on essential provisions to be incorporated, 1.3
- meeting of minds on terms of contract required, 1.3
- requisites for formal contract met, 1.3
- example of such agreement, 1.3
- term of employment not agreed upon and left up to court to decide, 1.3
- contract of indefinite duration, 1.3

Employment standards See also Human rights

- change in employer, 3.8
- employer sells business and purchaser employing employees of seller, 3.8
- employment deemed not to have been terminated, 3.8
- “sells” defined, 3.8
- transfer of assets and job offers by new employer, 3.8
- continuous employment where terms of employment unchanged, 3.8
- no termination and no severance pay resulting, 3.8
- contractors, 3.10
- employment standards obligations to independent contractors, 1.9, 3.10
- long work hours, 3.10
- hours of work, 1.9, 3.3
- meal breaks, 3.3
- employers not required to compensate employees for time spent on breaks, 3.3
- meal break of 30 minutes following five consecutive hours of work, 3.3
- Newfoundland and Labrador providing for one-hour break, 3.3
- night shift of 7.5 hours long in Ontario, 3.3

INDEX

- 30-minute meal break following 5 consecutive hours or agreement for 2 breaks, 3.3
- suspension of meal break in certain circumstances, 3.3
- legislation, 3.1
- child employment in Manitoba, 3.1
- employment of child under 16 years requiring permit, 3.1
- application for permit to Director of Employment Standards, 3.1
- permits issued only after specific employment obtained, 3.1
- employers certifying that work not harmful to child, 3.1
- limitation periods, 3.1
- civil action to enforce minimum employment standards in B.C., 3.1
- employer's potential liability significantly expanded, 3.1
- limitation periods under legislation not implied into contract, 3.1
- minimum standards being implied into employment contract, 3.1
- initiation of complaint, deadline for, 3.1
- "within six months after the last day of employment", 3.1
- maximum number of months of unpaid wages for which employer liable, 3.1
- wages that became payable in six months before date that complaint filed, 3.1
- wages that became payable in six months before last day of employment, 3.1
- provincial legislation where satellite office located applying to those employees, 3.1
- where employee working simultaneously in several provinces, 3.1
- jurisdiction having "sufficient connection" to employment relationship, 3.1
- option in Ontario of claim under legislation or action for wrongful dismissal, 3.1
- simultaneous proceedings not permitted, 3.1
- overtime, 3.4
- agreement for employees to be paid at regular rate of pay in excess of 40 hours, 3.4
- Ontario Act invalidating agreement to give up right to overtime pay, 3.4
- salaried employee entitled to overtime after 44 hours in week, 3.4
- time and half to be paid for hours in excess of 44 hours per week, 3.4
- job-specific exemptions, 3.4
- supervisory or managerial employees not qualifying for overtime, 3.4
- averaging agreements over periods of longer than four weeks, 3.4
- approval of director of employment standards, 3.4
- averaging policies and Alberta laws, 3.3
- business trips and, 3.3
- independent contractor working more than 44 hours in week, 3.4
- characterization of individual as independent contractor or employee, 3.4

INDEX

- court tendency toward liberal interpretation of who being “employee”, 3.4
- independent contractor working full-time hours raising serious questions, 3.4
- individuals found to be employee despite reference to contractor in contract, 3.4
- key indicator whether individual working solely for employer, 3.4
- tests for determining whether employment or independent contractor relationship, 3.4
 - four-fold test, 3.4
 - “integration” or “organizational” test, 3.4
- information technology professionals, exemption for, 3.4
- “information technology professional” defined, 3.4
- Ontario Act not including all people working in information technology field, 3.4
- voluntary overtime, 3.3
 - without approval, 3.4
 - pay, 3.2 see also pay, deduction of, 3.2.1
 - commission calculation, method of, 3.2
 - terms of contract determining when commissions earned and payable, 3.2
 - commissions payable when sale, invoice, delivery or customer paying, 3.2
 - commission terms to be clearly spelled out, 3.2
 - wages payable at least semi-monthly and within 8 days after end of pay period in B.C., 3.2
 - company-wide salary decrease as an alternate measure to mass layoffs, 3.2
 - legal way to provide employees with reasonable notice, 3.2
 - cost of living “bonus”, 3.2
 - payment on one-time-only basis and not tied to wages, 3.2
 - direct deposit, 3.2
 - Canada Labour Code allowing payment of wages as established by employer’s practice, 3.2
 - certain provinces requiring employee’s authorization in writing, 3.2
 - mandatory or need for employee’s consent, 3.2
 - Ontario Act allowing direct deposit if certain conditions present, 3.2
 - other provinces permitting direct deposit of wages, 3.2
 - Saskatchewan specifying methods of payment, 3.2
 - standard way of delivering paycheques, 3.2
 - unilateral change to direct deposit, 3.2
 - employee’s consent to change of method of payment, 3.2
 - prohibited where payment by cheque being fundamental term of contract, 3.2
 - effective pay according to performance review date, 3.2

INDEX

- holiday pay, 3.2
 - calculation of holiday pay, 3.2
 - calculation differing from province to province, 3.2
 - calculation not straightforward in case of hourly workers, 3.2
 - exclusion if not worked enough hours or shifts preceding holiday, 3.2
 - formula for calculating regular rate of wages, 3.2
 - Nova Scotia providing for payment based on equivalent of regular wages, 3.2
 - Ontario Act taking wages and vacation pay earned in 4 weeks divided by 20, 3.2
 - calculation of public-holiday pay, 3.2
 - Ontario employees entitled to wages and vacation pay in 4 weeks divided by 20, 3.2
 - four work weeks based on employer's work week prior to holiday, 3.2
 - minimum requirements, 3.2
 - exemption from requirements for specific employees, 3.2
 - federal or provincial legislation applying, 3.2
 - greater benefits able to be provided under collective agreement or employment contract, 3.2
 - regulated by employment/labour standards legislation, 3.2
 - substitution of another holiday for particular general holiday, 3.2
 - temp agencies not exempt from paying statutory holiday pay, 3.2
 - agencies supplying temporary personnel found to be employers, 3.2
 - Ontario Act now not providing for exemption for month-to-month contracts, 3.2
 - Ontario Regulation exempting holiday pay if person able to elect to work or not, 3.2
 - "wage rate" defined as hourly rate of pay for wages, 3.2
 - "wages" defined, 3.2
 - where holiday not falling on normal work day, 3.2
 - employee entitled to 1.5 times "wage rate" for each hour worked, 3.2
 - where holiday falling on normal work day, 3.2
 - employee entitled to additional 1.5 times "wage rate" for each hour worked, 3.2
 - minors, payment of, 3.2
 - return interview and working for two to four hours without pay, 3.2
 - employer not able to require applicant to work in position without paying him, 3.2
 - hiring process able to have applicant observe another employee performing job, 3.2

INDEX

- salary vs. wages, 3.2
- illness, 3.2
- salaried employee continuing to be paid unless “sick days” prorated, 3.2
- prorating system recommended to limit money paid to salaried employees, 3.2
- wage earner not paid for time away from work, 3.2
- overtime pay being payable to both hourly wage earners and employees paid by salary, 3.2
- salary being fixed payment for defined period, 3.2
- salary compensating employee despite absences from work, 3.2
- wages usually paid for work or services of irregular nature, 3.2
- hourly wage compensating for hours actually worked, 3.2
- severance pay for retiring employees, 3.2
- no legal requirement to pay severance pay to employee voluntarily resigning, 3.2
- Ontario Act and Regulation relieving employer of obligation to pay severance pay, 3.2
- “statement of earnings” or “wage statement”, 3.2
- Manitoba requiring employers to pay employees at least semi-monthly, 3.2
- employer required to provide written statement at end of each pay period, 3.2
- exception where amount of wages same over series of pay periods, 3.2
- information in written statement, 3.2
- paper format or electronically, 3.2
- wage statements to be provided at end of each pay period or on each payday, 3.2
- termination of employment, 3.2
- employer required to pay vacation accrued to time of cessation of employment, 3.2
- Ontario Act requiring payment not later than 7 days after employment ending, 3.2
- Nova Scotia Act providing for payment of vacation pay within 10 days of cessation, 3.2
- amount of vacation pay varying according to length of employee’s service, 3.2
- whether employee quit or dismissed, 3.2
- severance payment not later than 7 days after employment ending, 3.2
- severance pay in installment where written agreement, 3.2
- vacation pay entitlement, 3.2
- allotment exceeds statutory minimum, 3.5

INDEX

- employee refuses to take minimum vacation, 3.5
- length of service, depending on, 3.2
- minimum statutory entitlement, 3.2
- Ontario Act requiring payment in lump sum before employee starting vacation, 3.2
- alternate arrangement where vacation not taken in complete weeks, 3.2
- termination of employment and deductions if vacation taken in advance, 3.2, 3.5
- pay, deduction of, 3.2.1
- alternative payback arrangements, 3.2.1
- deduction from commission where sales representative ordering wrong product, 3.2.1
- deductions limited by provincial legislation, 3.2.1
- court orders or garnishments, 3.2.1
- deduction due to clerical error, 3.2.1
- Ontario Act does not prohibit, 3.2.1
- statutory source deductions, 3.2.1
- written authorizations provided by employee, 3.2.1
- faulty work vs. costs of doing business, 3.2.1
- provincial legislation allowing deductions for losses, shortages or damage, 3.2.1
- proof that loss being fault of employee, 3.2.1
- written authorization signed by employee preferably when hired, 3.2.1
- garnishment of employee's wages, 3.2.1
- employer unable to suspend or terminate employee because of garnishment, 3.2.1
- garnishment process varying among jurisdictions, 3.2.1
- judgment creditor applying for issuance of garnishee summons, 3.2.1
- recipient of garnishee summons under judicial compulsion to comply, 3.2.1
- payment of garnished funds into court allowing for determination of priorities, 3.2.1
- type of debt affecting availability and scope of garnishment procedure, 3.2.1
- repayment of expenses incurred in employee training where termination within year, 3.2.1
- B.C. Act not requiring employee to pay any of employer's business costs, 3.2.1
- Ontario Act allowing demand for repayment if written authorization, 3.2.1
- required training accepted as employment, 3.2.1
- written agreement between employee and employer enforceable, 3.2.1

INDEX

- agreement complying with requirements of employment/labour standards, 3.2.1
- specific formula for calculating partial return of training cost, 3.2.1
- set-off of amounts owed by employee upon termination, 3.2.1
- Ontario employer not entitled to withhold payments due unless authorized, 3.2.1
- employee's written authorization requiring specific amount or formula, 3.2.1
- example of repayment of loan made to employee, 3.2.1
- withholding of final pay for monies owed, 3.2.1
- exceptions in Canadian employment legislation, 3.2.1
- Nova Scotia Standards Tribunal finds written consent needed by employee for cost of uniform, 3.2.1
- written authorization by employee at hiring, 3.2.1
- deductions when others have access finding by the Ontario Court of Appeal, 3.2.1
- restrictions on deductions imposed by Alberta's Employment Standards Code and the Canada Labour Code, 3.2.1
- temporary layoffs, 3.11
- pay severance, 3.11
- uncertain length, 3.11
- records, storage of, 3.9
- employee personnel files, 3.9
- ESA stipulating contents of files and length of time for retention, 3.9
- Saskatchewan requiring details of unwritten contract and copy of written contract, 3.9
- listing of information and documentation to be retained, 3.9
- records to be retained for five years following termination, 3.9
- location of records, 3.9
- records maintained in confidence, 3.9
- retention periods ranging from 12 months to five years, 3.9
- retention periods, resumes and interview notes, 3.9
- no specific requirements, 3.9
- hiring practices in discrimination complaint, 3.9
- jurisdictional human rights legislation, 3.9
- example of the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal, 3.9
- short and long-term disability, 3.7
- cessation of employer contributions to benefits, 3.7
- disabled employees not to be singled out, 3.7
- discontinuance of disability benefits for inactive employee, 3.7

INDEX

- automatic termination clauses in collective agreement regarded as reasonable, 3.7
- parties having right to negotiate maximum period for absences, 3.7
- subject to human rights legislation, 3.7
- employment standards legislation setting out minimum standards, 3.7
- Ontario Act indicating minimum treatment accorded to employees on leave, 3.7
- human rights legislation imposing obligation not to discriminate, 3.7
- termination of coverage for disabled employees constituting discrimination, 3.7
- “discrimination” defined, 3.7
- duty of reasonable accommodation, 3.7
- duty to inquire, 4.5.2
- long-term disability (LTD) program, 3.7
- deductions from employees’ wages to cover costs of premium, 3.7
- deduction permitted if employee authorizing deduction in writing, 3.7
- employment contract or policy manual ought to refer to LTD program, 3.7
- deductions not covered by employment contract subject to s. 13 objection, 3.7
- Ontario having no legislative provision allowing for such deduction, 3.7
- option of opting into program and authorizing deductions, 3.7
- termination without cause, where, 3.7
- sick days, 3.6
- contract “employees”, entitlement of, 3.6
- employers not offering paid sick leave to contract “employees”, 3.6
- entitlement to sick leave typically matter of contract, 3.6
- jurisdictions either including or excluding “dependent contractors” in ESA, 3.6
- termination of contract employee for excessive absenteeism, 3.6
- common law principles relating to frustration of contract, 3.6
- human rights legislation precluding discrimination on basis of disability, 3.6
- employer having duty to reasonably accommodate employees, 3.6
- “employment” encompassing independent contractors, 3.6
- tests to determine whether employment relationship, 3.6
- status of individual based on analysis of whole relationship, 3.6
- whether sick leave provided in employment standards legislation, 3.6
- insurance companies and adjusters determining entitlement to disability benefits, 3.6
- employees able to dispute decision and point to own medical information, 3.6
- insurer having duty to act in good faith, 3.6
- insurer ordered to reinstate benefits and pay punitive damages, 3.6

INDEX

- insurer not having specific obligation to consult with medical practitioners, 3.6
- insurers not wanting to pay doctors to review files, 3.6
- paid sick days, 3.6
- employers not required to provide paid sick days absent contract or agreement, 3.6
- employment standards legislation requiring unpaid sick days, 3.6
- paid sick days and unpaid emergency leave, 3.6
- employer entitled to compensate number of days of emergency leave, 3.6
- vacation, holidays and leaves, 3.5
- citizenship test or ceremony, attendance at, 3.5
- collective agreements providing for special leave with pay, 3.5
- employment standards legislation not compelling employer to grant unpaid leave, 3.5
- communication obligations during leave, 3.5
- leave with a fixed return date, 3.5
- leave without a fixed return date, 3.5
- responsibility to inform employer, 3.5
- emergency leave, 3.5
- Ontario Act providing for 10 unpaid days of emergency time off, 3.5
- compensating employees for some days, 3.5
- employees not entitled to both paid sick days and 10 days of unpaid leave, 3.5
- employers with 50 or more employees, 3.5
- medical emergency of employee or of prescribed individuals, 3.5
- “prescribed individuals” defined, 3.5
- policy ought to set out breadth of circumstances justifying leave, 3.5
- failure to return from leave, 3.5
- family responsibility leave, 3.5
- “immediate family” defined, 3.5
- unpaid leave of five days in B.C., 3.5
- unpaid leave of five days in Ontario, 3.5
- ill or disabled employees and unpaid leave of absence, 3.5
- employee still on probationary period, 3.5
- extension of probationary period violates employment standards, 3.5
- must comply with human rights and employment standards legislation, 3.5
- group benefit coverage, whether employer able to terminate, 3.5
- independent medical examination, 3.5
- reasonable notice that benefit coverage terminating, 3.5
- request to return to work or supply medical evidence, 3.5
- termination of employment based on frustration of contract or absenteeism, 3.5

INDEX

- unpaid leave of absence, 3.5
- employer not required to provide benefit coverage, 3.5
- unilateral revocation of benefit coverage at later date, 3.5
- triggering termination of employment or constructive dismissal, 3.5
- denial of unpaid leave request, 3.5
- maternity leave and downsizing of company, 3.5
- maternity replacement hired as boss, 3.5
- obligation to reinstate employee who has taken leave, 3.5
- subject to termination for unrelated reasons, 3.5
- parental and/or child-care leave, 3.5
- parental leave in Saskatchewan, 3.5
- four weeks' written notice required, 3.5
- maximum period of parental leave, 3.5
- time period for taking parental leave, 3.5
- eligibility based on length of employment, 3.5
- personal days, two floating, 3.5
- risk of constructive dismissal if unilaterally dropping one day, 3.5
- constructive dismissal recognized in employment standards legislation, 3.5
- fundamental change to terms and conditions of employment, where, 3.5
- reasonable advance notice of change possibly eliminating risk, 3.5
- public holidays in Ontario, 3.5
- agreement to change day off for Canada Day, 3.5
- eight days as public holidays, 3.5
- entitlement to take off work and receive public holiday pay, 3.5
- public holiday falling on weekend, employee given substitute day where, 3.5
- statutory holiday, 3.5
- agreement to work on statutory holidays in exchange for another paid day off, 3.5
- employees entitled to get paid day off on statutory holiday, 3.5
- exempted categories of workers who not necessarily getting day off with pay, 3.5
- entitlement to another day off in lieu or premium pay, 3.5
- hospital workers and workers in hospitality and tourism industry, 3.5
- managers and supervisors entitled to paid statutory holidays in Ontario, 3.5
- supervisor working from home on holiday and not given day off in lieu, 3.5
- legislation allowing for some flexibility, 3.5
- vacation schedule unilaterally changed by employer, 3.5
- collective agreements containing provisions dealing with vacation scheduling, 3.5

INDEX

- employer having discretion to approve, alter or revoke employee's vacation, 3.5
- discretionary management rights to be exercised reasonably, 3.5
- restrictions on discretion if included in employment contract, 3.5
- employer required to ensure compliance with vacation entitlement under ESA, 3.5
- policy manuals contractually binding on employers, 3.5
- revoking of employee's vacation in breach of contract exposing claim for damages, 3.5
 - measure of damages, 3.5
 - reimbursement of employee's non-recoverable expenses, 3.5
- scheduling of employee's annual vacation based on certain factors, 3.5
- vacation time: carry-over or cashing in, 3.5
- cash payout in exchange for vacation, employer entitled to reject, 3.5
- some jurisdictions permitting cash payouts of accrued vacation, 3.5
- agreement to pay out accrued vacation as cash subject to government scrutiny, 3.5
- payout agreement required to be more advantageous than rights under statute, 3.5
- unused vacation time, dismissed employee recovering damages for, 3.5
- statutes requiring minimum amount of annual vacation be actually given, 3.5
- vacation carry-over not required in absence of statutory provisions, 3.5
- vacation carry-over permitted by express or implied terms of contract, 3.5
- vacation time: unearned vacation time, 3.5
- employer unable to make deduction without employee's authorization, 3.5
- vacation time: "use it or lose it" policy, 3.5
- guarantee of accrued vacation pay, 3.5
- policy illegal if affecting statutory entitlements, 3.5
- policy legal if not apply to minimum vacation entitlements, 3.5

Harassment See Human rights and Terminations, reasons for dismissal

Holiday pay See Employment standards, pay

Human rights See also Employment standards

- accommodation, 4.3
- addictions, 4.3.1.1
- alcoholism, 4.3.1.1
- alcoholism being recognized disability, 4.3.1.1
- employee denying alcoholism, 4.3.1.1

INDEX

- duty to accommodate employee if alcoholic, 4.3.1.1
- misconduct attributable to disability not providing basis for dismissal, 4.3.1.1
- cocaine addict and high cost of intensive treatment program, 4.3.1.1
- undue hardship, considerations in determining, 4.3.1.1
- cost of treatment program causing organization undue hardship, 4.3.1.1
- evidence of addiction, 4.3.1.1
- gambling as disability, 4.3.1.1
- “handicap” encompassing physical, psychological and mental conditions, 4.3.1.1
- Human Rights Commission having no explicit policy or ruling, 4.3.1.1
- conditions considered as disability not closed, 4.3.1.1
- disabilities generally, 4.3.1
- benefits continuing while employee on workers’ compensation or disability leave, 4.3.1
- collective agreement providing for partial or no coverage after certain absence, 4.3.1
- prevailing view that limitations on benefits not discriminatory if consistent, 4.3.1
- restrictions possibly viewed as discriminatory, 4.3.1
- collective bargaining able to determine if sick leave and seniority continuing, 4.3.1
- disabled employee’s right to equal treatment vs. employer’s right to productive workplace, 4.3.1
- disabled employees unable to meet benchmarks for merit increases, 4.5.3
- whether duty to accommodate extending to continuing benefits, 4.3.1
- disclosure of medical or emotional condition, 4.3.1
- applicant having no obligation to disclose condition qualifying as disability, 4.3.1
- requirement of certain state of health as job qualification, 4.3.1
- job posting to clearly set out qualification, 4.3.1
- pre-employment medical to establish whether possessing requisite qualities, 4.3.1
- duty to provide safe working environment, 4.3.1
- common law duty and duty under Criminal Code, 4.3.1
- duty to accommodate disabled employees to point of undue hardship, 4.3.1
- accommodation process requiring parties to seek out reasonable measures, 4.3.1
- current information required concerning medical restrictions, 4.3.1
- duty shared by employer, disabled employee and union, 4.3.1

INDEX

- employer permitted to remove employee if unable to work safely, 4.3.1
- alternative positions, search for, 4.3.1
- sickness or disability leave, 4.3.1
- proper management of employees on basis of disabilities, 4.3.1
- laying off of several employees, 4.3.1
- duty to accommodate disabled employees to point of undue hardship, 4.3.1
- duty to accommodate continuing during notice period, 4.3.1
- undue hardship determined according to particular circumstances, 4.3.1
- costs of accommodating employee during reasonable notice period, 4.3.1
- long-term disability (LTD) or sick leave and return to work, 4.3.1
- compensation altered where employee only able to work at 70% capacity, 4.3.1
- accommodation process including move to another position, 4.3.1
- employer able to adjust employee's compensation, 4.3.1
- complex determination, 4.3.1
- "disability" defined, 4.3.1
- dismissal of employee on disability leave to be carried out cautiously, 4.3.1
- background check, 4.2
- birthdate and social insurance number, 4.2
- protected ground under human rights legislation, 4.2
- bona fide business reason for not continuing to employ disabled employee, 4.3.1
- dismissal in bad faith resulting in increased damages awarded, 4.3.1
- onus on employer to prove undue hardship in modifying duties, 4.3.1
- reasonable notice of termination of employment, 4.3.1
- payment in lieu of notice as employer unable to give "working notice", 4.3.1
- severance pay depending on employment standards and common-law factors, 4.3.1
- reinstatement of employee if failing to accommodate, 4.3.1
- duty to accommodate disabled employee to point of undue hardship, 4.3.1
- employee under obligation to accept interim measure if medically cleared, 4.3.1
- employee able to be placed in lower-ranked position, 4.3.1
- employer to consider what able to be done in workplace, 4.3.1
- requirement to modify employee's duties and position which create obstacle, 4.3.1
- rehabilitation plans providing for gradual return to work, 4.3.1
- return to work with permanent medical restrictions, 4.3.1

INDEX

- employer required to offer rehabilitative employment or for trial period, 4.3.1
- employee unable to perform duties vital to job, where, 4.3.1
- employer having demanding duty to accommodate work-related injuries, 4.3.1
- employer having lesser duty where injuries unrelated to workplace, 4.3.1
- context of work responsibilities held prior to injury, 4.3.1
- recent trend to have extended duty to accommodate where unrelated injuries, 4.3.1
- employer advised to give opportunity to perform available position, 4.3.1
- undue hardship where quantifiable cost of accommodation altering nature of business, 4.3.1
- whether accommodating employee resulting in undue hardship, 4.3.1
- obesity as disability, 4.3.1
- obesity found to be disability where ongoing condition, 4.3.1
- obesity not in itself amounting to physical disability, 4.3.1
- older employees, physical limitations of, 4.3.1
- “age” defined, 4.3.1
- bona fide occupational requirement, 4.3.1
- factors considered in determining undue hardship, 4.3.1
- factors relevant to health and safety risk, 4.3.1
- standard reasonably necessary, whether, 4.3.1
- effect of action being determinative, 4.3.1
- equal treatment and freedom from discrimination based on age, 4.3.1
- proactive in meeting duty to accommodate, 4.3.1
- methods of accommodation, 4.3.1
- drug and alcohol testing, 4.3.1.1.1
- after a workplace accident, 4.3.1.1.1
- pre-employment drug screening as part of hiring process, 4.3.1.1.1
- drug screening of applicants if effective assessment for employment, 4.3.1.1.1
- testing constituting medical examination and prohibited, 4.3.1.1.1
- testing justified in safety-sensitive positions and after conditional offer, 4.3.1.1.1
- testing for intoxication, 4.3.1.1.1
- alcohol tests vs. drug tests, 4.3.1.1.1
- invasion of employee privacy vs. employer’s liability for workplace safety, 4.3.1.1
- kinds of testing: prospective employees, existing employees or random testing, 4.3.1.1.1

INDEX

- mandatory drug testing as condition of access to safety-sensitive site, 4.3.1.1.1
- random drug testing at safety-sensitive facility struck down, 4.3.1.1.1
- random testing violating “respect and dignity” provisions, 4.3.1.1.1
- random drug testing revealing only past use being discriminatory, 4.3.1.1.1
- testing implemented as part of broader substance abuse policy, 4.3.1.1.1
- purpose of testing and consequences of refusal or positive results indicated, 4.3.1.1.1
- employee participation, 4.3.1
- family status, 4.3.3
- flex time or adjusting working hours to accommodate family needs, 4.3.3
- change in term of employment interfering with substantial family duty, 4.3.3
- employee having 4 children including child with severe medical problems, 4.3.3
- prima facie case of discrimination, 4.3.3
- shift moved forward by three hours, 4.3.3
- employer not having obligation to grant request for flex time, 4.3.3
- duty to accommodate employee’s child care or other family needs, 4.3.3
- refusal to work on-call assignment due to child-care obligations, 4.3.3
- dismissal of employee being discriminatory, 4.3.3
- employer not accommodating family obligations, 4.3.3
- unpaid leave to care for sick child may not be sufficient, 4.3.3
- marriage of two employees, 4.3.3
- bona fide occupational requirement (BFOR), 4.3.3
- factors for justifying BFOR, 4.3.3
- hiring or posting decision based on marital status required to satisfy “KVP” requirements, 4.3.3
- junior spouse reporting to different manager if in same department, 4.3.3
- prohibition against discriminating because of marital or family status, 4.3.3
- promotion or job assignment without creating “conflict of interest” situation, 4.3.3
- refusal of promotion as employees working together prima facie discriminatory, 4.3.3
- overtime hours required on regular basis for new position, 4.3.3
- employer prevented from discriminating during hiring process, 4.3.3
- applicant’s marital or family status off-limits during interview, 4.3.3
- medical absences, 4.3.1.2
- long-term disability and continuing benefits coverage, 4.3.1.2
- employers not required to provide continued health benefit coverage, 4.3.1.2
- reasonable notice of change limiting length of time of benefits, 4.3.1.2

INDEX

- subject to express or implied contractual commitment to continue coverage, 4.3.1.2
- sick leave on week-to-week basis, 4.3.1.2
- conversion to short-term disability and later to long-term disability, 4.3.1.2
- sick leave for occasional illness, 4.3.1.2
- stress leave and inability to return to work, 4.3.1.2
- employer prevented from discriminating against disabled employee, 4.3.1.2
- employer required to bear some hardship, 4.3.1.2
- gradual return to work program, 4.3.1.2
- necessary and appropriate measures depending on number of factors, 4.3.1.2
- stress-related condition constituting physical or mental disability, 4.3.1.2
- termination of employment if no likelihood of reintegrating into workforce, 4.3.1.2
- time-limit cap on benefits, 4.3.1.2
- disability insurance as term or condition of employment, 4.3.1.2
- distinction between disabled employees and active employees justified, 4.3.1.2
- premium contributions discontinued for employees on extended absence, 4.3.1.2
- work in exchange for compensation and contributions form of compensation, 4.3.1.2
- policy preserving ability of disabled employees to continue contributions, 4.3.1.2
- medical marijuana, 4.3.1
- government permission, 4.3.1
- human rights legislation, 4.3.1
- parental leave, 4.3.5
- employer required to reinstate employee to position most recently held, 4.3.5
- transfer to comparable position if position held no longer existing, 4.3.5
- “comparable position”, meaning of, 4.3.5
- comparable position, number of factors determining whether, 4.3.5
- whether job changing for improper reason relating to leave, 4.3.5
- merit increase where employee worked 4 out of 12 months of performance year, 4.3.5
- employers not required to give salary increases based on good performance, 4.3.5
- pro-rated increase for good performance for 4 months’ work, 4.3.5
- maternity leave not to interfere with accrual of seniority or benefits, 4.3.5
- returning employees entitled to general salary or benefit increases, 4.3.5

INDEX

- returning employee having right to be reinstated to former position, 4.3.5
- position not able to be deemed to “not exist” only because occupied by other employee, 4.3.5
- termination of employment, 4.3.5
- employer having heavy onus to prove that unrelated to leave, 4.3.5
- legitimate grounds to terminate, 4.3.5
- same-sex partner giving birth to child, 4.3.5
- employee entitled to leave although integral to success of business, 4.3.5
- parental leave existing regardless of whether employee actually gave birth, 4.3.5
- parents able to adjust to new familial situation, 4.3.5
- written notice before leave to begin, 4.3.5
- pregnancy, 4.3.4
- modified physical duties for pregnant employee, 4.3.4
- employer not liable for employee injured performing regular duties, 4.3.4
- employee entitled to workers’ compensation benefits, 4.3.4
- need for accommodation regardless of employee request, 4.3.4
- short-term disability benefits, 4.3.4
- exclusion of pregnant women from coverage being form of discrimination, 4.3.4
- health-related absences vs. medical aspects of absence due to pregnancy, 4.3.4
- insurers suggesting two to four-week post-delivery absence to be recognized, 4.3.4
- medical component of pregnancy leave qualifying as health-related absence, 4.3.4
- Ontario Act removing pre-existing exemption for pregnant women, 4.3.4
- pregnant women not to be afforded less generous sick-leave benefits, 4.3.4
- woman giving birth or suffering miscarriage afforded short-term disability leave, 4.3.4
- religion, 4.3.2
- extra paid days off for employees observing Jewish or other religious holidays, 4.3.2
- collective agreement providing for time off with valid reasons, 4.3.2
- duty to accommodate assessed on case-by-case basis, 4.3.2
- paying teachers for religious holidays not unreasonable burden on employer, 4.3.2
- teachers’ schedules not able to be modified to allow them to work on other days, 4.3.2
- whether options available to redress loss of pay, 4.3.2

INDEX

- use of paid miscellaneous days to observe religious holidays, 4.3.2
- whether scheduling changes available to allow observance without wage loss, 4.3.2
- employee permitted to bank extra hours and use them to observe holy days, 4.3.2
- Muslim daily prayers, 4.3.2
- bona fide occupational requirement (BFOR), 4.3.2
- Meiorin test determining whether discriminatory standard being BFOR, 4.3.2
- whether job requirement “reasonably necessary”, 4.3.2
- example of duty to accommodate religious beliefs, 4.3.2
- reasonable measures to accommodate prayer times and pre-prayer washing rituals, 4.3.2
- trade union as party to human rights violation, 4.3.2
- undue hardship, factors considered in determining, 4.3.2
- age, 4.5.2
- age restriction, 4.5.2
- case law precedents, 4.5.2
- legislation, 4.5.2
- retirement inquiries, 4.5.2
- discrimination, 4.5
- criminal record, 4.5.1
- bona fide qualification, determining whether, 4.5.1
- criminal record check requiring consent of individual, 4.5.1
- human rights legislation prohibiting discrimination based on pardoned offence, 4.5.1
- exception where discrimination being reasonable and bona fide qualification, 4.5.1
- misconduct adversely affecting company’s operations or reputation, 4.5.1
- whether conviction related to occupation or employment of person, 4.5.1
- false complaints, 4.6
- employment equity, 4.5.5
- harassment, 4.4
- investigation without official complaint, 4.4.5
- policies, 4.4.3
- employees of same sex to share hotel rooms when traveling on business, 4.4.3
- no legal impediment to development of policy, 4.4.3
- notice of new policy to be given in advance of upcoming travel, 4.4.3
- workplace harassment policy, 4.4.3

INDEX

- communication of policy to employees, 4.4.3
- fundamental implied term of employment relationship, 4.4.3
- incident of harassment, 4.4.3
- complaint process, 4.4.3, 4.5
- minimum elements of policy, 4.4.3
- proactive steps by employers to deal with workplace harassment, 4.4.3
- sexual harassment, 4.4.2
- romances between co-workers, 4.4.2
- categories of office romances, 4.4.2
- office romance vs. sexual harassment, 4.4.2
- policy regulating co-worker romances being impractical, 4.4.2
- problematic relationships between employee and customer or supplier, 4.4.2
- conflict of interest policy to deal with potential problems, 4.4.2
- relationship affecting ability to decide in best interests of company, 4.4.2
- problematic relationships between manager and subordinate, 4.4.2
- power imbalance increasing risk of sexual harassment complaint, 4.4.2
- workplace relationships not grounds for termination of employment, 4.4.2
- verbal harassment and bullying, 4.4.1
- employer's duty, 4.4.1
- process upon complaints of bullying, 4.4.1
- belittling by manager when not employee present, 4.4.1
- complaint to human resources department, 4.4.1
- employers liable if allow managers to treat employees disrespectfully, 4.4.1
- human rights complaint where comments constituting discrimination, 4.4.1
- manager undermining employee's dignity, 4.4.1
- talking to manager about inappropriate comments, 4.4.1
- bullying by co-workers by exclusionary behaviour, 4.4.1
- active and definitive steps to prevent bullying and personal harassment, 4.4.1
- common-law duty of employers to provide civil and respectful workplace, 4.4.1
- employers having duty to protect employees from workplace bullying, 4.4.1
- employers having duty to investigate harassment complaints, 4.4.1
- policies and collective agreements prohibiting bullying and personal harassment, 4.4.1
- potential liability broadening for workplace bullying, 4.4.1
- duty of care to ensure harassment-free work environment, 4.4.1
- negligent infliction of mental suffering, damages for, 4.4.1
- "silent treatment" when employee seeking to deal with acts of bullying, 4.4.1

INDEX

- statutory provisions protecting employees from psychological harassment, 4.4.1
 - “psychological harassment” defined, 4.4.1
 - repeated conduct or single serious occurrence, 4.4.1
 - Saskatchewan employers required to develop written harassment policy, 4.4.1
 - workplace bullying as violation of human rights legislation, 4.4.1
 - demeaning behaviour based on place of origin or ethnic origin, 4.4.1
 - employees having right to be treated with civility, respect and dignity, 4.4.1
 - harassers approached and told to stop, 4.4.1
 - management approached with concerns, 4.4.1
 - offensive behaviour based on membership in protected group being harassment, 4.4.1
 - harassment, scope of, 4.4.1
 - store employee harassed repeatedly by customer, 4.4.1
 - passive inaction of allowing harassment resulting in infringement of rights, 4.4.1
 - proper course of action to be taken, 4.4.1
 - prevention of harassment by banning customer from store, 4.4.1
 - racially-motivated harassment by customer, 4.4.1
 - employer obligated to remedy this discrimination, 4.4.1
 - responsibilities of employer to prevent harassment, 4.4.1
 - verbal harassment, 4.4.1
 - good-faith exercise of legitimate management rights, 4.4.1
 - right to evaluate employees for work-related purposes, 4.4.1
 - “harassment” defined, 4.4.1
 - limits on scope of verbal harassment, 4.4.1
 - objective assessment of words and subjective impressions of employee, 4.4.1
 - single comment or extended pattern of conduct, 4.4.1
 - work-related stress, 4.4.1
 - workers’ compensation for mental distress triggered by “traumatic event”, 4.4.1
 - acute reaction resulting in psychiatric or psychological response, 4.4.1
 - employee suffering or witnessing traumatic event, 4.4.1
 - examples of “sudden and unexpected traumatic events”, 4.4.1
 - “traumatic event” resulting from criminal act or harassment, 4.4.1
- workplace gossip, 4.4.4
- harassment due to workplace gossip, 4.4.4
- health issues and lifestyle, 4.5.6

INDEX

- job applicants, 4.2
- background check, 4.2
- birthdate and social insurance number, 4.2
- protected ground under human rights legislation, 4.2
- bona fide occupational requirements (BFOR), 4.2
- Meiorin test determining whether discriminatory standard being BFOR, 4.2
- whether job requirement “reasonably necessary”, 4.2
- pre-employment medical test for physically demanding assignment, 4.2
- physical fitness standards for demanding overseas assignment, 4.2
- relevant factors in determining whether BFOR defence succeeding, 4.2
- conditional offer of employment before background check, 4.2
- third parties, 4.2
- Federal Contractors Program and fair hiring practices, 4.2
- Canada regulating employment equity re federally regulated employers, 4.2
- employers required to maintain records and submit to human rights audits, 4.2
- Employment Equity Act requiring survey questionnaire to be completed when hired, 4.2
- designated group status, 4.2
- government contractors required to recruit diverse pool of qualified applicants, 4.2
- Internet applicant, criteria for, 4.2
- ruling of OFCCP applying to federal contractors and subcontractors in U.S., 4.2
- government contractors required to collect information on Internet applicants, 4.2
- internet searching on job applicants, 4.2
- human rights complications, 4.2
- privacy concerns, 4.2
- interview of external candidate, 4.2
- human rights legislation restricting how employers select, interview and hire, 4.2
- no duty to interview particular individual or hold job open when not available, 4.2
- no general duty to accommodate applicant unable to attend interview, 4.2
- scheduling of interviews, 4.2
- accommodating religious or family commitments, 4.2
- job advertisements and application forms, 4.2
- information sought reasonably relating to performance of job, 4.2
- wrong information sought raising allegations of human rights violations, 4.2

INDEX

- examples of areas to watch out for, 4.2
- job description requirements in a job application, 4.2
- scrutiny of application forms, background checks and interview questions, 4.2
- legislation and jurisdiction of courts, 4.1
- courts hearing human rights cases, 4.1
- courts called upon to be guardians of human rights, 4.1
- unionized and non-unionized contexts, 4.1
- wrongful dismissal litigation relying on violations of human rights' protections, 4.1
- discrimination claim included in wrongful dismissal action, 4.1
- wrongful dismissal action settled and subsequent human rights complaint, 4.1
- commission having discretion to decide whether complaint made in bad faith, 4.1
- signed release not automatically resulting in bad faith determination, 4.1
- whether independent legal advice and whether coercion, 4.1
- place of origin, nationality or ancestry, 4.5.4
- proficiency in English required by employer, 4.5.4
- “bona fide” occupational qualifications, 4.5.4
- importance of language highlighted by Ontario Supreme Court, 4.5.4
- language discrimination on grounds of ancestry founded by British Columbia Human Rights Tribunal and Ontario Board of Inquiry, 4.5.4
- Retaliation, 4.6
- discipline, 4.6
- frivolous discrimination claims, 4.6
- Return to work, 4.3.6
- injuries, 4.3.6
- temporary modified work program, 4.3.6
- social media background checks, 4.5.7

Independent contractor vs. employee

- degree of control being key distinguishing factor, 1.9
- control of employment relationship manifesting in subordination of employee, 1.9
- employment statutes of protective nature applying to contracts of employment, 1.9
- five factors in determining if person employee or independent contractor, 1.9
- overtime entitlement, 3.4
- characterization of individual as independent contractor or employee, 3.4
- court tendency toward liberal interpretation of who being “employee”, 3.4
- federal and provincial jurisdiction for overtime exemptions, 3.4

INDEX

- independent contractor working full-time hours raising serious questions, 3.4
- individuals found to be employee despite reference to contractor in contract, 3.4
- managers, supervisors exempt, 3.4
- key indicator whether individual working solely for employer, 3.4
- position classified as exempt, 3.4
- tests for determining whether employment or independent contractor relationship, 3.4
 - four-fold test, 3.4
 - “integration” or “organizational” test, 3.4

Labour law

- collective agreements, 7.2
- common law rights relating to termination not implied in collective agreements, 7.2
 - common law period of reasonable notice not implied, 7.2
 - common law rights required to be imported into collective agreement, 7.2
- form of discipline not contained in agreement, 7.5
- moving job classification to outside of collective agreement, 7.3
- posting of positions internally and job selection process, 7.2
 - by-passing of process in past not altering requirement of interviewing, 7.2
 - each qualified member of bargaining unit having right to be considered, 7.2
 - employee’s service in acting role being important consideration, 7.2
 - no individual employee having right to demand preferential treatment, 7.2
- probationary employee released due to unsuitability, rights of, 7.2
 - denial of right of access to grievance procedure, 7.2
 - employees normally entitled to receive reasons for dismissal, 7.2
 - employer having right to dismiss for unsuitability, 7.2
 - employer’s reasons providing basis to challenge decision if arbitrary or bad faith, 7.2
 - no hard-and-fast rule requiring employer to expand on reasons, 7.2
- retroactive wage increases, rights of former employees where, 7.2
 - former employees not entitled where agreement only specifying current employees, 7.2
 - where agreement silent on issue of former employees, 7.2
 - wage increases not applying retroactively to former employees, 7.2
 - whether presumption that retroactive increases applicable to former employees, 7.2
- workplace harassment policy and collective agreement, 7.3
 - grievance able to be filed if anti-harassment clause in collective agreement, 7.2

INDEX

- grievance process not available for harassment alone if no anti-harassment clause, 7.2
- unionized employee able to file grievance if harassor abusing authority, 7.2
- collective bargaining, 7.2
- “captive audience” meeting with employee during union campaign, 7.1
- employer being free and entitled to express its views respecting union, 7.1
- communications without coercion, threats or undue influence, 7.1
- no prima facie violation of Ontario Labour Relations Act, 7.1
- whether employee unduly influenced by meeting with employer, 7.1
- past union affiliations questioned during interview, 7.1
- employers prohibited from refusing to employ person because trade union member, 7.1
- inadvisable to ask questions concerning union membership, 7.1
- remedies of board being broad and far-reaching, 7.1
- union membership having no bearing on ability to perform duties, 7.1
- dismissals, 7.5
- inadequate settlement offer, 7.5
- inadequate union representation, 7.5
- provisions of Canada Labour Code and provincial labour relations laws, 7.5
- remedy of unjust dismissal, 7.5
- wrongful dismissal suit to court instead of labour relations board, 7.5
- union application to strike out civil claim of a firefighter, 7.5
- strikes, 7.3
- statutory holiday pay for striking employees, 7.3
- B.C. Act not applying where collective agreement dealing with statutory holidays, 7.3
- collective agreements normally specify requirements for statutory holiday pay, 7.3
- illegal strike breaking requisite period of “continuous employment” of 30 days, 7.3
- “purposive approach” used by arbitrator to allow claim for statutory holiday pay, 7.3
- lack of scheduled work prior to holiday due to lawful strike, 7.3
- rights of striking employees turning on language of agreement, 7.3
- unionization, 7.1
- how to legally discourage, 7.1
- labour, relations, legislation, 7.1

Layoffs

- layoff of employees with short-term or long-term disabilities, 9.12

INDEX

- non-union layoffs, 9.12
- replacement, 9.12
- voluntary layoff, 9.12
- plant staying open past a plant closure date, 9.12

Liability of employer See also Employment standards and Human rights

- employee misconduct, 6.3
- employee newsletter possibly containing libelous or offensive content, 6.3
- defence of “qualified privilege” not available if malicious comment, 6.3
- employer responsible for acts of employees during course of employment, 6.3
- whether publishing newsletter part of employees’ job, 6.2
- employer’s liability based on degree of control over content, and response, 6.3
- vicarious liability where company responsible for publication of newsletter, 6.3
- degree of involvement and control by management being important factors, 6.3
- liability if failure to remove offending publication, 6.3
- limited liability contract signed by customer, effect of, 6.3
- negligent employee benefiting from limited liability clause, 6.3
- where employee acting in course of employment, 6.3
- protection of employee from liability making common sense, 6.3
- generally, 6.4
- letters of reference for employee, 6.4
- duties when reference requested, 6.4
- employee deficiencies not to be discussed in letter of reference, 6.4
- facts of employment and description of duties being useful to employee, 6.4
- lack of meaningful letter of reference resulting in increased notice period, 6.4
- perfunctory letter of reference causing difficulties to find new job, 6.4
- reference to employee’s attributes and contributions, 6.4
- officers and directors of corporation, personal liabilities of, 6.4
- limited liability of corporation, shareholders and directors, 6.4
- officers and directors not civilly liable unless tortious conduct of directing minds, 6.4
- rental of office premises to outsiders, 6.4
- due diligence respecting prospective tenant to ensure activities not posing undue risk, 6.4
- employer having limited control over tenant and tenant’s employees, 6.4
- employer’s duty to ensure safe and secure working conditions, 6.4
- defence of due diligence, 6.4
- union layoffs, 7.7
- laying off union member on medical leave, 7.7

INDEX

- rental to outsiders introducing new risks to workplace , 6.4
- risks mitigated in rental agreement, 6.4
- segregating tenant's office space, 6.4
- office parties, 6.2
- alcohol served at end of day on Fridays, 6.2
- duty on employer to safeguard employee from harm, 6.2
- employer's liability where providing alcohol to employees during work hours, 6.2
- employment relationship characterizing situation under which alcohol provided, 6.2
- measures to eliminate or reduce potential liability, 6.2
 - alcohol-free event, 6.2
 - intoxicated employee prevented from driving home, 6.2
 - person designated to watch for excessive consumption, 6.2
 - taxi coupons provided in advance of party, 6.2
- consumption of alcohol at employer-sponsored events or on work premises, 6.2
- disciplinary action where influence of alcohol interfering with performance, 6.2
- duty of employer to ensure safety of employees, 6.2
- employer liable for damages caused by intoxicated employees, 6.2
 - employer aware that employee would be driving home, 6.2
 - employer taking inadequate steps to ensure safety of both employee and others, 6.2
- strict policy prohibiting drinking of alcohol at bars on employer's premises, 6.2
- party on company property, 6.2
- in-office location contributing to increase in potential liability, 6.2
- liability based on unsafe workplace premises where intoxication-related injuries, 6.2
- liability premised on whether reasonably foreseeable risk of injury, 6.2
- off-site location not substantially altering duty of employer, 6.2
- serving of alcohol to inebriated person allowed to drive, 6.2
 - need to monitor individual employees' consumption of alcohol, 6.2
- professional work environment during festive time of year, maintaining, 6.2
- alcohol consumption being important issue, 6.2
- cash bar vs. open bar, 6.2
- conflict of interest arising if gift received where business relationship, 6.2
- conflict of interest situation arising where employee acting in own interest, 6.2
 - where contrary to best interests of employer's business, 6.2
- employees advised not to drink and drive, and taxi chits provided, 6.2

INDEX

- harassment claims increasing with alcohol consumption, 6.2
- memo to employees regarding respectful behaviour during holiday events, 6.2
- “social” host liability, 6.2
- employer hosting party for employees not ordinary “social host”, 6.2
- duty of care of employer closer to commercial host, 6.2
- commercial host required to monitor patron’s consumption of alcohol, 6.2
- employer failing to take positive steps to prevent drunk employee from driving, 6.2
- key issue being host’s power of control over activity of guest who causes damage, 6.2
- right to control behaviour of other in employer-employee relationship, 6.2
- off-site and after hours holiday party, employer having less authority where, 6.2
- social host not owing duty to general public to protect them from drunk guests, 6.2
- whether evidence that guest relied on host to ensure his or her safety, 6.2
- suggestions to limit liability arising from hosting holiday party, 6.2
- recruitment and hiring, 6.1
- inducing candidate to leave secure position, 6.1
- leaving secure position not sufficient to give rise to finding of inducement, 6.1
- reasonable notice period lengthened by inducement, 6.1
- significant degree of enticement, 6.1
- “willing seducee” militating against extension of notice period, 6.1
- steps to follow to protect against claims for increased notice period, 6.1
- misrepresentation by headhunter to potential employee, 6.1
- employer liability if misrepresentation on employer’s behalf, 6.1
- wrongful-hire lawsuit, 6.1
- negligent misrepresentation by employer inducing employee to enter contract, 6.1
- representation made by employer to detriment of employee, 6.1
- damages awarded to put employee back into position would have been in, 6.1
- employee hired for position relating to project that did not materialize, 6.1
- employee resigning from previous secure position, 6.1
- steps to take to protect employer from wrongful-hire lawsuit, 6.1

Non-competition/non-solicitation agreements

- confidentiality, 1.7
- “confidential information”, narrow definition of, 1.7
- skill and knowledge committed to memory not within definition, 1.7

INDEX

- where not dependent on documentation, 1.7
- solicitation of customers whose contact information learned during service, 1.7
- confidential information, use of, 1.7
- duty not to disclose trade secrets and confidential information, 1.7
- factors affecting use of information, 1.7
- non-fiduciary employee able to use information, 1.7
- investment advisors able to prepare list of clients and contact information, 1.7
- fiduciary obligations, 1.2
- directors and officers under Ontario Business Corporations Act, 1.2
- employment relationship elevated to fiduciary level, 1.2
- employee's privileged position disentitling him from making use of information, 1.2
- employer placing trust and confidence in employee, 1.2
- fiduciary employee barred from soliciting clients of former employer, 1.2
- reasonable period of non-solicitation being 6 to 12 months, 1.2
- restrictive covenants, 1.2
- careful drafting required, 1.2
- reasonableness of time period, 1.2
- enforced reluctantly as restraint of trade, 1.2
- failure to honour valid restrictive covenant, 1.2
- employees ordered to pay damages of $2 million, 1.2
- employer obtaining injunction preventing employees from conducting business, 1.2
- freedom of trade vs. reasonable limitations, 1.2
- reasonableness of time period, 1.2
- solicitation, what constituting, 1.2
- former employee telling client nature of company and how to find him/her, 1.2

Occupational health and safety

- emergency and pandemic planning, 5.8
- employer's obligation, 5.8
- updating of procedures, 5.8
- liability, 5.6, 5.8
- legislation, 5.1
- appeal mechanism relating to inspector's order, 5.1
- appeals to Ontario Labour Relations Board, 5.1
- decisions of board being final but subject to judicial review, 5.1
- labour relations officer attempting to settle appeal, 5.1
- off-site employees, 5.5
- assessment of home workplace at discretion of employer, 5.5

INDEX

- Alberta Acts applying to work performed at worksite operated by different employer, 5.2
 - primary contractors on site, 5.2
 - responsibility of employer, 5.2
 - “true employer”, 5.2
 - responsibility of worksite owner and operator, 5.2
- B.C. Act applying to work performed by employee at home, 5.5
 - hours of work and overtime, rules regarding, 5.5
- confidentiality agreement to protect employer’s confidential information, 5.5
- food provided by employer, 5.2
- home offices eliminating commuting and freeing up office space, 5.5
 - employees injured while commuting, 5.2
- mechanisms for effective control and supervision of employees working at home, 5.5
 - set of written expectations, 5.5
 - potential pitfalls, 5.5
- workers’ compensation legislation applicable to home premises, 5.5
 - compensation for work-related illnesses or injuries in course of duties, 5.5
 - employees’ duties respecting safe work practices, 5.5
 - general duty to ensure health and safety of employees protected, 5.5
 - guidance on practical considerations of working from home, 5.5
 - safe and ergonomic working environment, 5.5
 - specific duties only applying to workplaces controlled by employer, 5.5
- “workplace” defined in Canada Labour Code as any place where employee working, 5.5
 - standards for employees on business trips or in vehicles, 5.2
- policies, 5.6
 - employee failure to follow policies, 5.6
- posting of health and safety information and policies in other languages, 5.6
 - B.C. Act requiring use of language readily understood by workers, 5.6
 - official languages of French and English for federal public servants, 5.6
 - Ontario Act requiring employers to post Act and explanatory material, 5.6
 - both in English and majority language of workplace, 5.6
 - Quebec Act requiring French text, 5.6
 - requirements for company policies being in English or French, 5.6
 - unionized employers, 5.6
- unowned premises, 5.2
- workers’ compensation, 5.4
- accrual of vacation time or sick days while off on WSIB, 5.4

INDEX

- Ontario Act entitling employee to vacation time whether active or inactive employment, 5.4
- whether employment agreement or collective agreement creating obligation, 5.4
- collection of compensation for mental-health leave, 5.4
- WSIA not providing for accrual of sick credits or vacation credits, 5.4
- WSIA requiring employer to continue employment benefits for first year, 5.4
- workplace environment, 5.2
- heat stress in workplace, 5.2
- B.C. requiring temperatures of between 74 and 81 F, 5.2
- general duty to eliminate risk of injury or illness from heat in workplace, 5.2
- heat stress, factors involved with, 5.2
- N.B. requiring monitoring of heat stress, 5.2
- plan for hot summer months, 5.2
- threshold limit values for acceptable workplace temperatures in summer, 5.2
- higher pay for extremely hot daily temperatures, whether, 5.2
- health and safety concerns, 5.2
- heat stress assessment ordered by inspector, 5.2
- assessment including recommendations controlling exposure to heat, 5.2
- no duty to pay higher wage for work performed during extreme heat, 5.2
- refusal to do work where reason to believe endangerment to health and safety, 5.2
- employee entitled to compensation equal to loss of earnings, 5.2
- refusal until remedial action or matter investigated, 5.2
- workplace violence, 5.3
- employee's right to refuse work if threat of harassment or violence perceived, 5.3
- statutory protections for employees, 5.3
- amendments to legislation, Ontario Bill 168, 5.3
- Saskatchewan's investigative process in cases of work refusals, 5.3
- employer's obligation to protect worker from violence in workplace, 5.3
- arbitral jurisprudence, 5.3
- grievances resulting in significant damage awards, 5.3
- harassment provisions in collective agreements, 5.3
- common law liabilities including tort of negligence, 5.3
- careless infliction of mental suffering where prolonged harassment, 5.3
- duty to ensure place of employment as safe as reasonable care permitting, 5.3
- failure to provide civil workplace found to be constructive dismissal, 5.3
- courts showing willingness to hold employers liable, 5.3

INDEX

- Quebec’s “anti-bullying” legislation, 5.3
- obligation on employer to protect workers from vexatious behaviour, 5.3
- workplace violence including psychological harassment, 5.3
- statutory obligations imposed on employers, 5.3
- risk assessment and establishing policies and procedures where risk existing, 5.3
- pellet gun discharged in workplace, 5.3
- anti-violence policies ought to include prohibition against possession of weapons, 5.3
- conduct disciplinable although anti-violence policy not specifying pellet guns, 5.3
- Criminal Code including pellet guns in definition of “imitation firearm”, 5.3
- weapons offence arising from discharging of pellet gun, 5.3
- reasonable precautions to protect workers, 5.3
- disciplinary action justified against employee, 5.3
- serious safety concern for all employers, 5.3
- termination for just cause, 5.3
- behaviour not warranting termination where employees not aware of policy, 5.3
- contextual analysis used in rendering decision, 5.3

Privacy

- background checks, 2.1
- credit check of new employees, 2.1
- common law tort of invasion of privacy, 2.1
- credit checks as extremely invasive measure, 2.1
- general policy of conducting checks at hiring not good idea, 2.1
- prudent employer determining which positions at risk of fraud, 2.1
- privacy commission opposing credit check when hiring employee, 2.1
- credit check not indicator of trustworthiness, 2.1
- employer required to exercise care in collecting personal information, 2.1
- privacy commissioner opposing mandatory credit checks by banks, 2.1
- credit checks limited to persons seeking credit, 2.1
- statutory restrictions on request for credit report for employment purposes, 2.1
- criminal background checks, 2.1
- checks during the course of employment, 2.1
- factors affecting employer’s ability to enforce demand for criminal rights check, 2.1
- human rights legislation prohibiting discrimination based on criminal conviction, 2.1

INDEX

- legislation requiring criminal reference checks, 2.1
- employees working with children or dependent adults, 2.1
- policies requiring criminal reference checks for prospective employees, 2.1
- criminal reference checks not involving intrusion into employee's private life, 2.1
- privacy legislation having impact on what employee able to demand, 2.1
- reasonable grounds to require consent to check after employment commenced, 2.1
- statutory requirements pertaining to personal information to be observed, 2.1
- type of operation and nature of position being factors to be considered, 2.1
- written consent required, 2.1
- reference checks, 2.1
- assessment of employee to be based on substantive facts, 2.1
- consent of employee to give reference or obtain reference, 2.1
- example of specific consent, 2.1
- principal rule being "get consent", 2.1
- written consent being best practice, 2.1
- employment reference considered "personal information", 2.1
- knowledge, consent and accuracy, 2.1
- Personal Information and Protection of Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA), 2.1
- provincial legislation respecting protection of personal information deemed similar, 2.1
- remaining provinces, PIPEDA applying to, 21.1
- destruction of documents, 2.2
- electronic documents, 2.2
- exceptions, 2.2
- legislation governing the creation and use of electronic documents, 2.2
- paper documents, 2.2
- employment references, 2.2
- employer refuses to provide information, 2.2
- monitoring employees, 2.3
- consent, tracking employees with time cards or finger scanning, 2.3
- discipline related counselling, 2.3
- ensuring an employee is complying with discipline related counselling, 2.3
- lie detector tests, 2.3
- employees' consent recommended, 2.3
- employers entitled to suggest that employee voluntarily submit to test, 2.3
- Ontario and New Brunswick prohibiting requirement of lie detector test, 2.3

INDEX

- violation of employee's personal data protection if not consent to test, 2.3
- monitoring of computer use through e-mail reviewing and keystroke logging, 2.3
- consent to monitoring as term of employment, 2.3
- monitoring acceptable where contemplated in collective agreement, 2.3
- monitoring acceptable where employee consenting, 2.3
- need to formally notify employees, 2.3
- monitoring not characterized as "surreptitious surveillance", 2.3
- test whether surveillance justified having lower threshold, 2.3
- policy for e-mail, Internet and keystroke logging, 2.3
- policy setting out terms of use and circumstances of monitoring, 2.3
- private sector privacy legislation, 2.3
- collection of personal employee information without consent if reasonable, 2.3
- collection reasonable for purposes of establishing, managing or terminating employment, 2.3
- reasonable expectation of privacy, legal issue of, 2.3
- software for keystroke logging, 2.3
- information gathered being "personal information", 2.3
- keystroke logging not "minimally intrusive" means to gather information, 2.3
- recording device, 2.3
- digital recording device, 2.3
- recording an interview, 2.3
- recording of employee telephone calls for training purposes, 2.3
- message/notification of monitoring required, 2.3
- recording of personal telephone calls, 2.3
- use of recording for stated purposes only, 2.3
- surveillance camera to monitor employees in public areas, use of, 2.3
- civil courts vs. collective agreement arbitrators, 2.3
- PIPEDA applying to federal employees and non-federal employees in "commercial activities", 2.3
- right to privacy vs. employer's interests, 2.3
- surveillance installed with employee's consent if PIPEDA applying, 2.3
- justification for surveillance if lack of consent, 2.3
- surveillance installed without telling employees if PIPEDA not applying, 2.3
- test to be applied by privacy commissioners in determining justification, 2.3
- tort of invasion of privacy, 2.3
- wrongful dismissal action, 2.3
- video surveillance more likely to be admissible to prove cause, 2.3
- videotape of foreman sleeping during night-shift, 2.3

INDEX

- searching employee's personal property, 2.3
- personal property of employee stored within property owned by employer, 2.3
- general right to search not recognized, 2.3
- reasonable expectation of privacy for personal information, 2.3
- social media monitoring, 2.3
- personal social media policies, 2.3
- off-duty social media posting, 2.3
- inappropriate comments on personal social media accounts outside of work hours, 2.3
- confidential information, posting, 2.3
- disciplinary action or termination, 2.3
- discriminatory comments, 2.3
- employer, co-workers or clients, comments regarding, 2.3
- harming employer's reputation, 2.3
- identifying as employee on social media accounts, preventing employee from, 2.3
- appropriate posted notice of a policy, 2.3
- drugs and alcohol, 2.3
- tracking of Internet and e-mail use, 2.3
- employers having legal duty to protect employees from sexual harassment, 2.3
- permissible to monitor usage as computers being company property, 2.3
- employee having no expectation of privacy when using company property, 2.3
- policies common and informing employees of types of use prohibited, 2.3
- off-duty behaviour, 2.4
- employer having interest in employee's misconduct off job in certain circumstances, 2.4
- corporate sponsored activities and social events, 6.3, 8.3.10
- employee-organized corporately funded hockey tournament, 6.3, 8.3.10
- right to protect reputation in community, 2.4
- nurse investigated for child abuse or bus driver for child pornography, 2.4
- police officer convicted of domestic assault or correctional officer charged with cocaine possession, 2.4
- proof required, 2.4
- summary dismissal justifiable, when, 6.3
- nurse investigated for child abuse or bus driver for child pornography, 2.4
- employer not having right to regulate in respect of employee's off-duty conduct, 2.4
- absence of connection between assault and workplace, 2.4

INDEX

- employer having no more claim to information from police, 2.4
- misconduct, 2.4
- potential employer liability, 2.4
- human rights violations, 2.4
- significant increase of risk due to employer, 2.4
- real and material connection to the workplace, 2.4
- off duty harassment of co-workers or clients, 2.4, 8.3.6
- witnesses interviewed independently of police investigation, 2.4
- personal employee information, 2.2
- employee's personal e-mails, 2.2
- reasonableness, 2.2
- Internet searches on job applicants, 2.2
- social media pages, 2.2
- Personal Information and Protection of Electronic Documents Act, impact of, 2.1
- federally regulated employees subject to PIPEDA, 2.2
- provincially regulated employees, PIPEDA not applying to personal information of, 2.2
- PIPEDA being model for provincial legislation, 2.2
- PIPEDA limited to "commercial activity", 2.2
- provinces having authority over property and civil rights, 2.2
- third party administrators, disclosure of employee information to, 2.2
- employee consent to be obtained, 2.2
- external company used to process payroll and benefits, 2.2
- necessary information to be provided to outside providers, 2.2
- third-party benefit or payroll service providers providing assurances of PIPEDA compliance, 2.2

Suspensions See Discipline

Terminations

- administration, 9.11
- outplacement services, 9.11
- personnel file, 9.11
- record of employment, 9.11
- record to be issued with five calendar days of interruption of earnings, 9.11
- interruption from resignation, layoff or dismissal, 9.11
- interruption occurring where salary falling below 60% of normal earnings, 9.11
- reference for departing employee, 9.11

INDEX

- employer having no legal obligation to provide reference, 9.11
- employer's financial obligations reduced if employee able to mitigate damages, 9.11
- favourable reference possibly nullifying claim of just cause for dismissal, 9.11
- refusal impacting on employee's ability to mitigate damages, 9.11
- refusal resulting in increased award of damages in wrongful dismissal action, 9.11
- constructive dismissal, 9.2
- change in qualifications required for employee's position, 9.2
- non-union workers, employer having right to establish or alter qualifications where, 9.2
- employer able to terminate employment if failure to maintain qualifications, 9.2
- new qualifications possibly resulting in constructive dismissal, 9.2
- new qualification amounting to substantial alteration of employment, 9.2
- obligation by employer of good faith and fair dealing, 9.2
- unionized workplace, employer having management right to set qualifications in, 9.2
- lay off of incumbent if not satisfying new qualifications, 9.2
- qualifications required to be reasonably related to job, 9.2
- new or different qualifications where alteration in job functions, 9.2
- change in benefit plan or pension, 9.2
- change in policy addressing previously condoned behaviour, 9.2
- change in work hours from flex to regular hours, 9.2
- consent to substantial workplace change precluding claim, 9.2
- constructive dismissal when unilateral changes to essential elements of contract, 9.2
- impact of change on employee as minor adjustment or substantial change, 9.2
- whether amendment to hours of work being substantial change to essential element, 1.7, 9.2
- whether employee agreeable to unilateral modifications in past, 9.2
- whether wording of contract recognizing employer's right to make changes, 9.2
- reasonable notice of change in hours of work, 9.2
- change of location of operations, 9.2
- court examining what would be reasonable for employee to do in situation, 9.2
- transfer of employee to new location to be exercised cautiously, 9.2
- transfer to another province likely reasonable if previously relocated to province, 9.2

INDEX

- whether transfer amounting to constructive dismissal, 9.2
- distance to new location to be reasonable, 9.2
- derogatory and demeaning conduct at hands of employer, 9.2
- atmosphere of hostility or humiliation entitling resignation and damages, 9.2
- employers required to act quickly and effectively to discipline such behaviour, 9.2
- examples of unacceptable conduct, 9.2
- onus on employer to identify problems in workplace and take remedial action, 9.2
- treatment of sufficient severity constituting repudiation of employment, 9.2
- layoffs, 9.12
- reducing position from manager to senior sales associate and duty to mitigate, 9.2
- constructively dismissed employee subject to duty to mitigate losses, 9.2
- demotion not necessarily meaning that employee not required to accept position, 9.2
- whether employee expected to accept position during notice period, 9.2
- employee not obligated to accept sales position as compensation reduced, 9.2
- relocating worker to different branch, city or country, 9.2
- relocation amounting to constructive dismissal if not term of contract, 9.2
- implied term of contract that worker accepting all reasonable transfers, 9.2
- right to request that worker relocate not absolute right, 9.2
- factors in determining whether request reasonable, 9.2
- whether legitimate business reason with little hardship to worker, 9.2
- resignation due to tone and manner in which supervisor spoke to employee, 9.2
- employee forced to resign due to rude and degrading comments, 9.3
- treatment making performance of work impossible and employment intolerable, 9.2
- wrongful dismissal action for damages based on constructive dismissal, 9.2
- workplace harassment in form of “supervisory bullying”, 9.2
- standard hours of work unilaterally increased by four hours per week, 9.2
- factors considered in determining whether fundamental change occurring, 9.2
- fundamental change without reasonable notice amounting to constructive dismissal, 9.2
- unilaterally transfer employees, 9.2
- inducement, 9.9
- aggressive recruiting opening door to increased severance package, 9.9
- classic examples of inducement, 9.9
- “encouragement” being form of inducement, 9.9

INDEX

- factors considered by court after finding inducement, 9.9
- inducement no longer relevant after period of time, 9.9
- inducement tending to lengthen notice period, 9.9
- ways in which to limit liability for comments during recruitment process, 9.9
- whether employee induced to quit secure, well-paying job, 9.9
- employee lured from senior position and let go during probationary period, 9.9
- inducement recognized as relevant in determining notice period, 9.9
- recent case law indicating wide range of outcomes, 9.9
- relevant factors in assessing weight of inducements, 9.9
- just cause, 9.4
- codes of conduct and, 9.4
- incompetence in performing duties, 9.4
- clear and proper warning respecting incompetence and time to improve, 9.4
- necessary resources to be provided to fulfill competency requirements, 9.4
- failure to return from leave, 3.5
- contextual approach, 9.4
- progressive discipline leading to termination, 9.4
- summary dismissal, 9.4
- two-step process, 9.4
- violence in workplace, 9.4
- principle of “near cause” where misconduct falling short of that required for dismissal, 9.4
- compensation package just above statutory minimum, 9.4
- punching co-worker likely just cause for dismissal, 9.4
- undocumented history of violence possibly constituting condonation, 9.4
- layoffs, 9.12
- notice of termination, 9.1
- company’s instant messaging program used for personal use, 9.1
- dismissal for first offence doomed to failure, 9.1
- employer required to inform employee that such practice not condoned, 9.1
- employer’s duty to act fairly including providing reasons for dismissal, 9.1
- facts needed to be ascertained before treating as disciplinary incident, 9.1
- bad faith dismissal justifying increase in notice period, 9.1
- grounds for dismissal if substantial and resulting in loss of productivity, 9.1
- dismissal of employee close to holiday season, 9.1
- dismissal for cause, time of year not impacting on employer’s decision concerning, 9.1
- dismissal without cause, judges sympathetic to employees where, 9.1
- full vs. part-time, 9.2

INDEX

- reasons for termination, 9.1
- common practice to meet with individual followed by letter, 9.1
- employers not required to provide reasons for dismissal, 9.1
- poor performance, dismissal for, 9.1
- recommending against misleading individual, 9.1
- Wallace case requiring employer to act in good faith at termination, 9.1
- duty to act in good faith includes duty of honesty, 9.1
- withholding reason for termination being contrary to requirement, 9.1
- termination of employee before starting, 9.1
- action for damages for anticipatory breach where signed agreement, 9.1
- defence of justification for repudiation of employment contract, 9.1
- termination pay packages, 9.7
- reasons for dismissal, 9.3
- absenteeism and lateness, 9.3.1
- abandonment of job after certain length of unexcused absence, whether, 9.3.1
- absence on day of important sale sufficient to justify termination, 9.3.1
- contextual approach for assessment of whether just cause to dismiss, 9.3.1
- medically justified leave of absence, 9.3.1
- failure to communicate with employer not justifying termination, 9.3.1
- no “rule of thumb” with respect to length of unexcused absence, 9.3.1
- regular contact with employee and warnings being prudent, 9.3.1
- chronic lateness, 9.3.1
- formal warnings before proceeding with dismissal, 9.3.1
- lateness habitual or demonstrating lack of concern for employer, 9.3.1
- “progressive discipline” to be taken with each incident, 9.3.1
- questions considered in determining whether termination sustainable, 9.3.1
- verbal warnings putting employer at serious disadvantage, 9.3.1
- absence of paper trail making it difficult to show employee clearly advised, 9.3.1
- no objective basis to judge whether message received by employee, 9.3.1
- not clear that job in jeopardy if absenteeism/lateness continuing, 9.3.1
- ambiguous response serving as basis for award of some compensation, 9.3.1
- characterization of probationary period as “successful” undercutting message, 9.3.1
- condoned misconduct resulting in dismissal without just cause, 9.3.1
- written warning to improve in future rectifying past omissions, 9.3.1
- when absence from work amounting to resignation or repudiation of contract, 9.3.1
- courts allowing considerable leeway if justification for absence, 9.3.1

INDEX

- employee injured in fight and taking few days off work, 9.3.1
- employer ought to assess why employee absent, 9.3.1
- failure to attend work without justification being cause to dismiss, 9.3.1
- prolonged absence considered objective evidence of repudiation, 9.3.1
- unilateral termination by employee when not return after dispute at work, 9.3.1
- words and/or conduct able to reflect intention to resign, 9.3.1
- workplace policy providing for specified number of days amounting to quitting, 9.3.1
- breach of trust, 9.3.2
- competing business and solicit clients by employee, intent to start, 9.3.2
- fiduciary duty to employees as set out by Supreme Court of Canada, 9.3.2
- good faith duty, 9.3.2
- expense account fraud, 9.3.2
- forms of expense account fraud, 9.3.2
- tips on how to approach issue of dismissal for expense account fraud, 9.3.2
- employee given full opportunity respond to suspected fraudulent conduct, 9.3.2
- whether reasonable explanation and whether intentional, 9.3.2
- onus of proof on employer to prove fraudulent or dishonest act, 9.3.2
- condonation of conduct resulting in dismissal without cause, 9.3.2
- standard of proof on employer of “balance of probabilities”, 9.3.2
- whether conduct intentional or single error in judgment, 9.3.2
- where unable to prove suspicions, employee dismissed on reasonable severance, 9.3.2
- written policy outlining process for claiming expenses and consequences for violation, 9.3.2
- falsification of records by manager, 9.3.2
- clear intention to defraud employer required to be established, 9.3.2
- revelation of employee’s untrustworthy character, 9.3.2
- dishonesty standing alone not always just cause for dismissal, 9.3.2
- full investigation to be done before making decision to terminate, 9.3.2
- manager actively participating in dishonest scheme, where, 9.3.2
- supervisor instructing subordinate to record non-existent purchase, 9.3.2
- test for dishonesty, 9.3.2
- whether dishonesty constituting breakdown in employment relationship, 9.3.2
- resume, lying on, 9.3.2
- major misrepresentation constituting just cause for dismissal, 9.3.2
- resume falsely showing business degree where requisite to position, 9.3.2

INDEX

- misrepresentation connected to job qualifications and relied upon, 9.3.2
- nature of lie and impact of lie affecting cause for dismissal, 9.3.2
- theft of company property, 9.3.2
- employee to be given opportunity to respond to allegation, 9.3.3
- investigative report not required to be shared with employee, 9.3.2
- termination not to occur during investigative meeting with employee, 9.3.3
- time sheets, lying on, 9.3.2
- contextual approach as to whether dishonest act going to core of relationship, 9.3.2
- lesser sanctions for less serious misconduct, 9.3.2
- implied duty of faithfulness and honesty, 9.3.2
- lack of confidence and trust existing between employer and employee, 9.3.2
- recurring problem after repeated warnings providing just cause for dismissal, 9.3.2
- frustration of contract, 9.3.5
- long-term disability for two years for mental illness, 9.3.5
- frustration of contract requiring that illness or disability be permanent, 9.3.5
- incapacity preventing performance of core job functions in foreseeable future, 9.3.5
- factors considered by court, 9.3.5
- frustration of employment contracts apply to unionized workers, 9.3.5
- holding position for employee serving jail time assessed on case-by-case basis, 9.3.5
- unrelated example of frustration of contract if individual agrees to rent condo and complex destroyed by fire, 9.3.5
- harassment, 9.3.3
- monitoring of e-mails revealing physical threat to co-worker, 9.3.3
- monitoring of employee e-mails permitted if clear policy communicated, 9.3.3
- e-mail containing prohibited content justifying discipline, 9.3.3
- e-mail use policy ought to detail permitted and non-permitted use, 9.3.3
- personal e-mails, restrictions on, 9.3.3
- physical threat of violence justifying termination for just cause, 9.3.3
- allegations of criminal conduct put to employee for response, 9.3.3
- assessment of whether or not significant safety risk, 9.3.3
- threatened employee in need of notification and protection, 9.3.3
- misconduct outside of work, 9.3.4
- criminal activity calling into question employee's honesty and trustworthiness, 9.3.4

INDEX

- conviction for impaired driving constituting just cause if related to duties, 9.3.4
- serious and immediate risk to legitimate interests of employer, 9.3.4
- conviction for theft frequently justifying dismissal, 9.3.4
- conviction on criminal charge more readily justifying dismissal, 9.3.4
- dismissal depending on level of responsibility of employee, 9.3.4
- whether continued employment resulting in prejudice to employer, 9.3.4
- whether crime of dishonest nature, 9.3.4
- dismissal justified if activity revealing that character incompatible with duties, 9.3.4
- dismissal not justified if charges and associated publicity not affecting business, 9.3.4
- human rights legislation prohibiting dismissal for unrelated criminal acts, 9.3.4
- prejudice to employer resulting from loss of reputation and goodwill, 9.3.4
- crime of moral turpitude adversely affecting reputation in community, 9.3.4
- test for dishonesty amounting to just cause, 9.3.4
- dishonesty inconsistent with employee's obligations to employer, 9.3.4
- dishonesty violating essential condition of employment contract, 9.3.4
- criminal offence not related to workplace, 9.3.4
- dishonest behaviour impacting on reputation where employee in position of trust, 9.3.4
- suspension of employee pending final determination of criminal offence, 9.3.4
- whether criminal act revealing character trait incompatible with employment, 9.3.4
- whether operation or reputation of business negatively affected by publicity, 9.3.4
- impaired driving offence at end of shift, 9.3.4
- contextual approach and determining whether punishment fitting crime, 9.3.4
- conviction leading to loss of license and potential frustration of contract, 9.3.4
- human rights issues if employee alcoholic, 9.3.4
- intoxication at work not always enough to justify termination for cause, 9.3.4
- questions to consider if conduct interfering with proper performance of duties, 9.3.4
- whether conduct injurious to employer's interests or incompatible with duties, 9.3.4
- off-duty misconduct at workplace, 9.4
- off-duty misconduct by school employee, 9.3.4

INDEX

- connection between employee's private life and employment relationship, 9.3.4
- considerations where employer determining off-duty misconduct, 9.3.4
- independent investigation into alleged misconduct, 9.3.4
- school bus driver's conviction for impaired driving justifying dismissal, 9.3.4
- clear connection between off-duty conduct and position as driver, 9.3.4
- conviction and licence suspension rendering driver unable to perform job, 9.3.4
- school context justifying higher standard of conduct, 9.3.4
- conduct of teacher bearing directly on community's perception of ability, 9.3.4
- misconduct causing loss of confidence by community and students, 9.3.4
- position of trust, confidence and responsibility, 9.3.4
- teachers occupying special role in society and special duty existing, 9.3.4
- single act of domestic violence not establishing unsuitability for position, 9.3.4
- where evidence not clear as to aggressor and whether prone to violence, 9.3.4
- teacher engaging in drinking-binge where his children taken away, 9.3.4
- employer having just cause to dismiss, 9.3.4
- social media usage, 9.3.4
- resignation of employee, 9.10
- notice of resignation, 9.10
- courts determining notice period on different basis than employer's notice, 9.10
- employee required to give reasonable notice of resignation, 9.10
- employee failing to give reasonable notice, 9.10
- employment contract, 9.10
- employment contract, 9.10
- lawsuit, 9.10
- withhold or deduction of pay, 9.10
- employer unable to adjust final cheque for any notice failed to provide, 9.10
- employee entitled to be paid for time already worked, 9.10
- ESA setting out minimum period of notice, 9.10
- reasonable notice provided to allow employer time to find replacement, 9.10
- written contracts able to address issue of how much notice, 9.10
- wrongful resignation, damages for, 9.10
- employer not typically suffering quantifiable damages, 9.10
- profit sharing entitlement where employee resigning before actual payment, 9.10

INDEX

- bonus amount paid despite resignation if integral part of compensation, 9.10
- condition of continuing employment required to be specific term of employment, 9.10
- payment dependent on nature of payment and any conditions, 9.10
- resignation in fiscal year entitling employee to profit sharing for fiscal year, 9.10
- payment owed although not on payroll when payment actually made, 9.10
- where bonus amount integral part of compensation and non-discretionary, 9.10
- where bonus amount paid historically even if discretionary, 9.10
- revocation of resignation, 9.10
- resignation required to be voluntary and without duress, 9.10
- resignation while mentally distressed, 9.10
- withdrawal of resignation permitted before acceptance, 9.10
- severance and reasonable notice, 9.7
- commission-based earnings, 9.7
- employee entitled to commissions would have earned during notice period, 9.7
- factors considered in making calculation, 9.7
- company car usage as affecting compensation in lieu of notice, 9.7
- taxable benefit on employee's T4 providing good indicator, 9.7
- value of personal usage making up part of employee's compensation, 9.7
- value of use of company car not included where exclusively used for business, 9.7
- economic slowdown forcing closure of satellite office, 9.7
- courts considering effects of tough economic times in determining notice period, 9.7
- reduction in workforce due to economic conditions not resulting in shorter notice period, 9.7
- notice period providing financial support to employee, 9.7
- Employment Insurance benefits, impact of, 9.7
- employer obligated to determine if overpayment of benefits where severance paid, 9.7
- employer obligated to deduct amount of EI benefits and remit to Receiver General, 9.7
- steps to be taken prior to making any severance payment, 9.7
- financial difficulties as basis for dismissing employees, 9.7
- employers unable to claim frustration to relieve them of contractual duties, 9.7
- repudiation of contract requiring period of reasonable notice, 9.7
- temporary layoffs permitted for specified periods under Ontario Act, 9.7
- layoffs beyond specified periods deemed to terminate contract, 9.7

INDEX

- financial incentives to remain employed, 9.7
- laying off employees with settlement package, 9.7
 - no inherent right to job, 9.7
- maternity leave, eliminating of sales territory of employee while on, 9.7
 - careful review of why change was to be made, 9.7
 - communication with employee about changes prior to expiry of leave, 9.7
 - employee entitled to reinstatement at conclusion of leave to comparable position, 9.7
 - employer having onus to demonstrate that good cause for change unrelated to leave, 9.7
 - legislation not prohibiting discontinuance of part of operations for valid reason, 9.7
 - risk of discrimination if discontinuance impacting on return to employment, 9.7
 - period of reasonable notice not likely starting until completion of leave, 9.7
- maternity/parental leave, severance obligation when employee on, 9.7
 - severance obligation on scheduled downsizing likely increasing, 9.7
 - pregnancy taken into account when determining reasonable notice, 9.7
- medical benefits, 9.7
 - dismissal without cause, 9.7
 - compensation entitlement, 9.7
 - employment agreement, 9.7
 - pregnant woman having more difficult time finding replacement employment, 9.7
- notice periods under Ontario Act and common law, 9.7
 - common law rules determining employee's entitlement to notice if contract silent, 9.7
 - notice entitlement based on time needed to find new job, 9.7
 - rules more generous than ESA minimum, 9.7
 - ESA setting out minimum notice periods for basic level of protection, 9.7
- part-time employees vs. full-time employees, 9.7
 - calculation of reasonable notice being same, 9.7
 - payment to part-time employee reflecting reduced remuneration of part-time work, 9.7
- plant manager with 10 years experience, termination of, 9.7
 - circumstances of hiring affecting notice period, 9.7
 - circumstances of termination possibly lengthening notice period, 9.7
 - obligation of good faith and fair dealing in terminating employment, 9.7
 - number of factors taken into account in assessing appropriate notice period, 9.7

INDEX

- factors considered, 9.7
- rule of thumb of one month's notice for every year of employment no longer used, 9.7
- payments in lieu of notice representing compensation employee would have received, 9.7
- qualifications or training of plant manager important in fine-tuning notice period, 9.7
- "severance" payments not recognized as discrete amount beyond payment in lieu, 9.7
- probationary period of employment, 9.7
- employer's obligations dependent upon what agreed upon, 9.7
- "just cause", 9.7
- court implying requirement of fairness in probationary relationship, 9.7
- employer only required to show that employee unsuitable for job, 9.7
- notice of one month by employee if agreed upon, 9.7
- employer obligated to pay in lieu of notice, 9.7
- reasonable notice by employer at common law, 9.7
- probation period, substandard performance during, 9.7
- probationary employee entitled to reasonable notice where no cause for dismissal, 9.7
- decision to terminate required to be reasonable and properly motivated, 9.7
- minimum statutory requirements under ESA, 9.7
- probationary period to be clearly established by employer, 9.7
- extension of probationary period, 1.13
- employee to be informed of expectations during such period, 9.7
- reasonable notice of termination, 9.7
- "ball park justice" no longer applied by courts, 9.7
- employee awarded damages based on determination of reasonableness, 9.7
- high cost of litigation, 9.7
- partial recovery of legal costs by successful party, 9.7
- "reasonable" defined as determining length of time required to find comparable employment, 9.7
- offering more than what employer believing reasonable vs. wrongful dismissal claim, 9.7
- "reasonable notice" based on number of factors, 9.7
- whether six months' notice reasonable for eight year employee, 9.7
- releases in full and final settlement of all claims, 9.7
- lump-sum settlement for less than full common-law notice period, 9.7
- advantages of lump-sum settlement, 9.7

INDEX

- finality with respect to employment relationship, 9.7
- procedures to be followed in obtaining release, 9.7
- release assessed according to value of separation package, 9.7
- release not appropriate where only minimum entitlement provided, 9.7
- signed releases usually best course of action, 9.7
- sale of shares of employer company, 1.12, 9.7
- Canada Labour Code determining whether employee entitled to severance, 9.7
- Code applying where employment between two employers continuous, 9.7
- employment not continuous where previous service not recognized, 9.7
- constructive dismissal where job significantly different with new employer, 9.7
- employee treated as coming into employ of purchasing employer, 9.7
- employment deemed continuous with transfer of business, 1.12, 9.7
- mere sale of shares not terminating all employment contracts, 9.7
- Ontario Act deeming employment continuous in context of sale of business, 9.7
- original employer ordered to pay severance where seniority not recognized, 9.7
- selling company obligated to pay employees in lieu of notice if buyer not offering employment, 9.7
- where employees rejecting new employment, seller obligated to pay compensation, 9.7
- where purchaser offering employment, new contracts of service created, 9.7
- severance pay, 9.7
- calculation of severance pay, 9.7
- form of severance pay, 9.7
- instalment payments requiring approval of Minister of Labour, 9.7
- resignation not disentiing employee if written notice given, 9.7
- severance pay being compensation for loss of seniority and job-related benefits, 9.7
- severance pay also recognizing years of service, 9.7
- severance pay requirements under Ontario Act, 9.7
- temporary layoff, occurrence of, 9.7
- when employees not entitled to severance pay, 9.7
- successive periods of employment, 9.7
- most recent period of employment counting where clear break in employment, 9.7
- notice entitlement restricted to latter period of employment, 9.7
- question whether employer recognizing continuity of service, 9.7

INDEX

- successive periods of employment counted as one period of employment, where, 9.7
- whether parties ignoring break in service when employee re-hired, 9.7
- unjust dismissal complaint under Canada Labour Code, 9.6
- reinstatement, remedy of, 9.6
- reinstatement of complainant and payment of lost wages, 9.6
- threshold for insubordination to warrant dismissal without previous discipline, 9.3.6
- extent of employee's behaviour, 9.3.6
- seriousness of insubordination, 9.3.6
- unjustly dismissed employee entitled to compensation for remuneration not received, 9.6
- awards under Code greater than those typically available at common law, 9.6
- entitlement to pay in lieu of notice where reinstatement not awarded, 9.6
- whistleblower legally protected or discharged for insubordination, 9.3.6
- definition of whistleblower, 9.3.6
- whistleblower policies, 9.3.6
- appropriate steps internally, 9.3.6
- fear of reprisal, 9.3.6
- false allegations, 9.3.6
- legislative protection in individual statutes, 9.3.6
- broader redress for retaliation offered by Saskatchewan and New Brunswick, 9.3.6
- “up the ladder approach” , 9.3.6
- refusal to comply with unlawful order or practice, 9.3.6
- working notice, 9.8
- disabled employee, accommodating, 9.8
- duty to accommodate to point of undue hardship, 9.8
- duty to accommodate continuing during notice period, 9.8
- length of expected employment being relevant consideration, 9.8
- terminated employee, 9.8
- minimum amount of working notice reflecting what court might award, 9.8
- notice required to be clear and unambiguous, 9.8
- reasonable time off to attend interviews, 9.8
- working notice allowing termination without having to pay large amount, 9.8
- wrongful dismissal, 9.5
- incompetence of senior salesman, 9.5
- condonation of past misconduct and insubordination creating uphill battle for employer, 9.5

INDEX

- employee to be advised of performance concerns and given opportunity to correct them, 9.5
- reasonable period of time for improvement, 9.5
- lengthy period where barely adequate performance accepted and rewarded, 9.5
- termination of employment by giving reasonable notice or payment in lieu, 9.5
- poor performance, dismissal for cause based on, 9.5
- requirements for finding just cause for dismissal for poor performance, 9.5
- dismissal upon performance issues inherently risky, 9.5
- employee advised of standard of performance, 9.5
- employee given reasonable opportunity to improve, 9.5
- propensity of employees for getting injured, 9.5
- dismissal for cause not existing for non-culpable safety performance, 9.5
- stress test, failure of, 9.5
- nervous depression occasioned by job stress constituting disability, 9.5
- duty to accommodate up to point of undue hardship, 9.5
- responsibilities or schedule reduced as solution, 9.5

Vacation pay See Employment standards, pay