Have there been any decisions where a court honoured the testator's wishes by ordering that the estate go to the alternate (contingent) beneficiary where the original beneficiary died after the testator but before receiving his inheritance?.....	Issues-325
Is the former common law wife of a pension plan member entitled to any benefits from her former spouse's private pension plan where there is a domestic contract wherein she has waived her claim to such benefits although she is still named as a beneficiary in the pension plan?	Issues-329
A number of provinces have "substantial compliance" legislation permitting courts to validate a will that does not conform to strict signing formalities, if certain conditions are met. In provinces like Ontario that do not have such legislation, do the courts have any inherent powers to admit to probate a will which doesn't comply with the strict formalities of execution? If so, in what circumstances would such inherent power be exercised by the court?.....	Issues-349
Following a judicial determination of testamentary incapacity, is a beneficiary designation that was made after the execution of the invalid will, also invalid on the grounds of issue estoppel?.....	Issues-363
