TABLE OF CONTENTS

5:50:10.10.90 De-escalating the Pyramid 5-75

5:60 Bright Lines 5-75

5:70 A Principled Approach 5-76

5:70:10 Principle 1: AMPs should be Capped at a Moderate Level to Minimize the Damage from the Possibility of a Wrongful Finding of a Violation 5-76

5:70:20 Principle 2: AMPs Should be Capped at Moderate Levels to Draw a Bright Line Between Monetary Penalties (Prices) and Criminal Offences (Sanctions) 5-80

5:70:20.10 Violations of which the Regulator is Aware 5-84

5:70:20.20 Violations of which the Regulator is not Aware 5-85

5:70:30 Principle 3: AMPs Imposed for Anti-Competitive Conduct should only be Imposed after a Warning Letter has been Issued and Non-Compliance has Continued 5-85

5:70:40 Principle 4: The Criteria for Assessment of the Amount of a Particular AMP should reflect Risk Management and Compliance Efforts 5-87

5:70:50 Principle 5: Separate Categories of AMPs should be Created in Proportion to the Gravity of Potential Harm. 5-88

5:70:60 Principle 6: Procedure should Precisely Match the Escalating Penalty Sought, and can be Varied at Each Level 5-89

5:70:70 Principle 7: At the Higher Levels of Penalty, Judicial Membership in the Tribunal may Counter the Problem of Potential Agency Bias when Administrative Agencies are given the Power to Levy Monetary Penalties 5-91

5:70:80 Principle 8: The Right to an Appeal should become Wider as the Penalty Category Increases. 5-92

5:70:90 Principle 9: Ex Post Penalties should be Severe Enough to act as a Disincentive — The New Role of Regulatory Offences 5-93

5:70:100 Principle 10: New Criminal Offences. 5-94

5:70:110 Principle 11: Ex Post Enforcement should be Swift. 5-94
